Unwritten Law Base of Defense For Court Trial

Defendant Waives Commitment Trial After State Had Introduced Three Witnesses.

DYING STATEMENT WAS NOT REVEALED

Testimony of Brother-in-Law Indicates Domestic Difficulties Caused Fatal Shooting.

Talbotton, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—After being shrouded in deep secrecy for more than four weeks, the veil of mystery surrounding the fatal shooting of A. B. McNeice, former county school superintendent, by Major Lee Court, retired army officer, here October 11, was lifted today at the preliminary hearing in the case when it is indicated that the defense will have its contentions for acquittal on the "unwritten law."

Alleged intimacy between McNeice and Mrs. Court, and not tangled financial affairs, as newspaper reports have stated, led to the killing of McNeice by Court, it was brought out indirectly by one witness who appeared for the state.

As soon as they had finished their testimony, the defense immediately waived the privilege of preliminary hearing, and thus automatically threw its case into the hands of a jury in a higher court.

Intense mystery surrounding the case since the death of McNeice in an Atlanta hospital a few days after the shooting, has caused widespread interest. Pending the outcome of McNeice's wounds, heavy bond was assessed and Court went to Columbus to the home of a sister. Upon McNeice's death, he was rearrested.

H. A. Hall conducted the state's case and although several witnesses were called and sworn, only three were put on the stand. Dr. F. W. McRae, of Atlanta; Sheriff J. W. Watkins and J. N. McGehee, an attorney of this place and brother-in-law of Major Lee Court, the defendant.

Physician's Testimony.
Dr. McRae testified that he attended McNeice in the Piedmont sanitarium in Atlanta and also testified that pneumonia was the ultimate cause of the death of McNeice, but the primary cause was a pistol wound.

The next witness was Sheriff J. W. Watkins, the first man to reach the deceased after he was shot. Sheriff Watkins testified that McNeice told him that Major Court shot him; that McNeice refused to reveal the cause of the shooting, stating that it was a personal matter and that he did not care to discuss it.

Mr. McGehee, a brother-in-law of Major Court, defendant, having testified that a sister of Major Court's wife, testified that Major Court had been to him several times before the shooting for advice regarding a divorce from Mrs. Court.

The attorney would not deny that Major Court had appealed to him as a brother-in-law to renege with Mrs. Court relative to her conduct and attitude toward McNeice, but stated that he had no recollection of this. He did admit, however, that Major Court had mentioned McNeice in connection with his wife several days prior to the shooting.

State Rests.
The state rested its case at this juncture. The counsel for the defense waived commitment and stated to the court that this was simply a preliminary trial and that it was a case that a jury would have to pass upon and for this reason the defense would not offer any testimony at this time.

It developed during the trial, from J. H. McGehee, that money matters, as had been previously stated through newspapers, was not the cause of the tragedy, as was stated by relatives of Mrs. McNeice, widow of the dead man, but it was precipitated by alleged intimacy between McNeice and Mrs. Court.

BRITAIN WILL PAY INTEREST TO U. S.

Announcement Is Made in Commons by Chancellor of Exchequer During Budget Statement.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
London, November 9.—An arrangement has been made to begin paying the interest on the debt owed by Great Britain to the United States at the rate of 50,000,000 pounds sterling yearly, it was announced in the house of commons today by Sir Robert B. H. Hoare, the chancellor of the exchequer.

Sir Robert made this announcement in the course of a statement on the budget prospects. He added with emphasis:

"I hope this remark about the debt we owe America will not be taken as yet without advice from Great Britain as to that government's intention to begin the payment of interest upon its debt to the United States, officials said today.

However, officials said, it was probable that Great Britain was preparing to begin interest payments under the tentative understanding by which the interest on the debt was deferred for a three-year period ending next April. As the British fiscal year ends in March, officials explained, and that government is now preparing its budget for the coming year, arrangements may have been made to begin the payment of interest next spring.

The British debt now stands at approximately $4,166,000,000 of principal upon which interest is payable at 5 per cent annually. The annual interest amounts to about $200,000,000 which would be approximately equivalent to about 50,000,000 pounds, figured at an exchange rate of about $4, the pound now being quoted at $3.94. There is, however, accumulated interest, which would amount to about $600,000,000 on November 15, which would have to be taken into consideration by the British.

In German Hospital After Facing Death In Many Accidents

Athens, Ga., November 9.—After facing death in numerous accidents, each of which was expected to prove fatal, Ralph Herring, 19 years of age, of Fitzgerald, Ga., is now lying blind and paralyzed in a hospital at Bremen, Germany. His condition is a result of exposure while drifting for several days in the open sea lashed to a ship, which had been wrecked off Cape Hatteras. News of his rescue reached friends today.

When 9 years old Herring fell 25 feet from a tree to a cement pavement, landing on his head and suffering a fracture which made necessary removal of a piece of skull two inches in diameter. A few years later his back was broken in a football game. While in the military service, he fell down a 40-foot hatchway, breaking his arm, leg, shoulder, ribs, and suffering internal injuries. Recovering he entered the merchant shipping service and was in a boiler explosion.

GEORGIA CROPS BADLY DAMAGED, SAYS U. S. REPORT

Prospects for Good Yields Have Gone Glimmering on Account of Adverse Conditions.

LARGE FOOD CROPS
HAVE BEEN HARVESTED

Despite Poor Yield, Total Production in Number of Products Is Greater Than 1920.

BY MARION KENDRICK.

In its most comprehensive crop report of conditions in Georgia for the year, the United States bureau of markets and crop estimates Wednesday night issued a statement declaring that while prospects for good average yields in various products have been lost on account of adverse conditions, farmers of the state have practiced diversification on a larger scale than ever before. Owing to the "superficial optimism" that hung like a cloud over farms during the summer has developed into the genuine article.

The evils of the one-crop system were realized during the past year, said John S. Denney, agricultural statistician for Georgia, who prepared the report, and as a result the largest corn crop in the history of the state has been harvested. Corn production is estimated finally at 87,975,000 bushels, 83 per cent of which is of merchantable quality.

Relative to the cotton crop, the report stated that all the fleecy staple has been picked and ginned. The production is placed at 730,000 bales—the smallest since 1878. This shortage, the statement continued, was partly due to a reduction of 28 per cent in the planted acreage as compared with 1920; the non-use of high-grade fertilizers, adverse climatic conditions and the ravages of the boll weevil.

Tobacco showed a slump in both average yield and total production.

Plans Completed For Red Cross Members Drive

Roll Call to Start on Armistice Day—Bidwell Chairman.

Promptly at 8 o'clock Friday morning, Armistice day, the fifth annual Red Cross roll call will be launched in Atlanta, with an organization of volunteer workers behind it which C. B. Bidwell, chapter chairman, says, "will do the work."

Chairman Bidwell announced that all departments of the organization are ready and eager to begin their work. Final instructions have been given to the women's division, headed by Mrs. R. K. Rambo, and the chapter chairman report that all is in readiness.

"Our preliminary work forecasts gratifying results," stated Mr. Bidwell. "Our campaign this year will be more condensed than in former years, for we will have no house-to-house canvass, but our street solicitation and office building canvass will be very intensive. Practically all of the work to be done this evening day will be street work, as most of the offices, banks, etc., will be closed, but on Saturday every one will strive doubly hard to swell the membership of the Atlanta chapter."

Leaders Enthusiastic.
Both Mrs. Rambo and Mr. Bidwell expressed enthusiastic appreciation for the splendid spirit shown by the women of Atlanta in responding to the appeal of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, which will sponsor the roll call.

The wonderful co-operation and unselfish spirit displayed by the Atlanta women is identical with that which was manifested during the war," said Mrs. Rambo. "And this goes to prove that the Red Cross still holds a very warm spot in our hearts. So splendid has been the response of the women that the men will be put on their mettle in order to keep up."

Mrs. L. R. Rosser, chairman of the War Mothers' committee, which will be an important factor in the street work, says: "I have never seen such an admirable attitude. Not one woman whom I have asked to help has refused."

Three divisions that are working in perfect co-ordination will carry on the roll call. The downtown division will make a room-to-room canvass of the office buildings, while a first-floor hours' work made an initial report of $1,500. Among the large gifts reported today are $5,000 from ex-Governor McDaniel, of Monroe, president of the university board of trustees. All county chairmen are being urged to send in final reports on Friday so that a total may be cast on the evening of Armistice day.

DRASTIC PROPOSAL STIRS METHODIST MINISTERS' MEET

Bishop Candler's Sermon on Politics in Conference Followed by Dr. Smith's Memorials.

WOULD GIVE CABINET INCREASED AUTHORITY

Term of Bishop Would Be Limited to Eight Years at Each Election.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Augusta, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—The first thrill in the session of the North Georgia Methodist conference came today when Dr. Rembert G. Smith, of Newnan, offered a set of memorials asking certain legislation by the general conference. Bishop Candler had finished his opening address only a few minutes before, in which he mercilessly flayed men who would make maneuvers in an annual conference for the purpose of electing men as delegates to the general conference.

The bishop asserted that such maneuvers were unworthy a minister, and that they should be discontinued. Dr. Smith's memorials asked for four different things:

First: That no appointments be considered legal, unless approved by a majority of the cabinet of presiding elders.

Second: That presiding elders be required to report their labors to the district conference, and that the bishops report to annual conferences.

Third: That the tenure in office of presiding elders be limited to not more than four consecutive years.

Fourth: That bishops be elected for eight years only.

Very Drastic.
The proposals of Dr. Smith are exceedingly drastic in their nature, and, if enacted, will bring about many and large changes in Methodist policy. The memorials were immediately referred to a committee on memorials, consisting of twenty-four men, ten of whom are laymen.

They will be reported out of committee some time Friday, and will doubtless provoke much debate. The decision made by the conference in the adoption or rejection of the report will have much to do with the election of delegates to the general conference, which meets next May.

$892,000 PLEDGED IN GEORGIA DRIVE

Gift of $5,000 Is Made by Former Georgia Governor—Emanuel County Over Top.

With $892,000 subscribed up to a late hour Wednesday, indications last night pointed to the successful conclusion by Friday, Armistice day, of the million dollar quota in the University of Georgia War Memorial fund drive. It is confidently expected that the necessary $108,000 to make the million dollar quota will be obtained by Friday.

The fund was swelled Wednesday by a gift of $5,000, made by former Governor Henry D. McDaniel, who is chairman of the University of Georgia board of trustees. This is one of the larger subscriptions to be made in the drive.

EMANUEL COUNTY PASSES QUOTA.

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Emanuel is the fourth county over the top in the University of Georgia War Memorial campaign. V. E. Durden, of Graymont, chairman, reports nearly $1,000 above the quota. Subscriptions are expected which should bring the total to one million dollars within the month allotted by the campaign committee. Twenty-six states are represented in the subscription list today and 93 counties of Georgia have sent in gifts to the fund.

The university co-eds started their canvass this morning and after their first few hours' work made an initial report of $1,500. Among the large gifts reported today are $5,000 from ex-Governor McDaniel, of Monroe, president of the university board of trustees. All county chairmen are being urged to send in final reports on Friday so that a total may be cast on the evening of Armistice day.

America's Greatest Pay Humble Homage Before Casket Bearing Bones of Her Nameless Hero-Son.

HIGHEST HONORS PAID DEAD IN WASHINGTON

Hardings Lead File of Distinguished Mourners Who Deck Coffin With Flowers of Homeland.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 9.—A plain soldier, unknown but weighted with honors as perhaps no American before him because he died for the flag in France, lay tonight in a place where only martyred presidents, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, have slept in death.

He kept lonely vigil lying in state under the vast shadowy dome of the capitol. Only the motionless figures of five armed comrades, one at the head and one facing inward at each corner of the bier, kept watch with him.

But far above, towering from the great bulk of the dome, the brooding figure of Freedom watched, too, as though it said: "Well done," to the servant, faithful unto death, asleep there in the vast dim chamber below.

Home at Last.
America's unknown dead is home from France at last, and the nation has no honor too great for him. In him, it pays its unstinted tribute of pride and glory to all those sleeping in the far soil of France. It was their home-coming today; their day of days in the heart of the nation and they must have known it, for the heartbeat of a nation defies the laws of space, even of eternity.

Sudden skies and a gray, creeping, chilling rain all through the day seemed to mark the mourning of this American son and air at the bier of this unknown hero. But not of of

Marriage? Capitol Queen Says 'No, But It's Proved

Boudoir Cap and Nigh—Er, Other Stuff—Brings Truth to Friends.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Here's the thrilling story of how some of the girl workers in an office at the state capitol forced another to admit that she seriously contemplated committing matrimony:

Chapter One.
Girls in office accuse one of the office queens of secretly planning to get married. Girl scornfully denies any such plans. Other girls silenced but not convinced.

Chapter Two.
The heroine draws her pay at office and goes down to Whitehall street. Gazes into an attractive shop window. Goes in and makes purchases. Comes out with purchases and minus pay envelope.

Chapter Three.
Heroine boards West Peachtree car for home. In abstracted mood leaves car and $43 worth of purchases. Runs frantically after car, but loses race. Advertisers in newspapers for lost package. Reward. No questions asked.

Chapter Four.
Package is returned to office at state capitol. Heroine absent. Package opened by mistake disclosing expensive boudoir cap and a $43 ring—er, er $43 worth of et cetera.

Chapter Five.
Heroine bursts into office. Sees package. Indignantly grabs it and glances angrily at smiling and knowing faces all around. "We knew it; we knew it, all along," heroine glares at them. "Well, what of it, any way?" she asks.

Chapter Six.
The whole lot of them are nothing but jealous cats," says heroine. (THE END.)

POWER COMPANY EMPLOYEE FOUND DEAD AT STATION

Mark on Foot Leads to Belief That Electricity Caused Death of Louie Middlebrooks.

TELEPHONE CALLS LEAD TO DISCOVERY

Officials Investigate When No Answer Is Received—Gave Instructions to Switch Current.

After he had attempted to manipulate a switch, it is believed, at the substation of the Georgia Power company, on the Lakewood car line near Capitol avenue, Louie E. Middlebrooks, aged 21, of 301 New-nan avenue, East Point, was at 6 o'clock found dead beside the switch by officials of the company. According to statements by one of the young men's brothers, W. P. Middlebrooks, a small burned spot was found on the dead man's left foot.

An inquest will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, in the parlors of Greenberg and Bond.

A derangement of power occasioned by the electrical storm in the city Wednesday afternoon caused officials of the company to telephone the substation, of which Mr. Middlebrooks was in charge, and instruct him to switch the current from one of the lines to another. The telephone call, made at 3:15 o'clock, was answered by Mr. Middlebrooks, who was declared.

Some time afterward, as the current had not been switched as directed, another telephone call was made, but was not answered. After a later and also unsuccessful attempt to communicate with the substation, a party with the station to investigate, with the result that the body of Mr. Middlebrooks was found, at 6 o'clock, lying beside a switch outside the building.

Position of instruments indicated that the young man met his death between 3:40 and 3:45 o'clock, it was stated. The body of Mr. Middlebrooks was taken to the undertaking establishment of Greenberg & Bond, where the inquest will be held.

The young man had, until several weeks ago, been in the employ of the Georgia Railway and Power company. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Middlebrooks, Sr., of East Point; two sisters, Misses Thelma and Bessie Middlebrooks, and four brothers, W. P. Middlebrooks, Jr., Charlie Middlebrooks, Leonard Middlebrooks and Harold Middlebrooks.

After the body was found, the switch he is said to have attempted to operate was tested and found to contain no leaks in current, company officials said.

DEMOCRAT CHIEF VOICES PLEASURE AFTER ELECTIONS

Nation-Wide Trend Away From Republican Party Seen by Cordell Hull in Results.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS WON IN FOUR STATES

Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia and New York Cause Jubilation in Ranks of Democrat Party.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY.

Washington, November 9.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—With the republican control in the Kentucky legislature lost, with an unprecedented democratic victory in New York city and even in the up-state municipalities, a sweeping democratic victory in Maryland, and a democratic landslide in Virginia even to the extent of sweeping aside the old time heavy republican majorities in the ninth district, the democratic colony in Washington today is jubilant, and more confident than ever that next year's congressional elections will swing the control of congress back into democratic hands. Not only are the party victories mentioned pronounced but in every state in which elections were held yesterday the earmarks of republican defection can be seen, the democrats capturing the outposts here.

Lloyd-George Sends Regrets at Absence and Promises Full Support of United Kingdom.

Delegates of Different Powers Confer on Work to Be Done as Conference Draws Near.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 9.—While the delegations of the powers were quietly at work today perfecting their plans for the armament conference, cheering assurances of support for the negotiations reached Washington from two important quarters of the old world.

David Lloyd-George, the British premier, in a message expressing regret that he could not attend the opening session on Saturday, declared the heart of Great tomorrow by nearly all the foreign delegations as well, though all of them will pause at some time during the day to pay homage to the unknown American soldier dead. A particular tribute is to be bestowed by the British delegation which will make a ceremonial pilgrimage to the capitol to lay a wreath on the bier. Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, is expected to reach Washington in time to take part in this ceremony.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Look years younger! Try grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur and nobody will know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyn's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—(adv.)

CALLS ARMS PARLEY "RAINBOW OF HOPE"

Lord Salisbury expressed the satisfaction of all England over the peaceful solution that had just then been reached with the United States in the Venetian dispute.

"Every man and woman of British blood," he said, "has been taught to regard a serious quarrel with the United States as unthinkable. That attitude of mind itself is a guarantee of peace between the two countries."

"But this conference, held under the auspices of America, ought to carry us a step further. It is the beginning of a similar attitude towards and between all peoples."

"If that is accomplished by the assembly at Washington, then the conference will have been the greatest event in the last nineteen hundred years."

Limitation of Armaments Mere Detail, Says Simonds

Real Issue Before Conference Is Settlement of Differences Between U. S. and Japan, He Says.

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.
(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution.)

New York, November 9.—(Special.)

At the moment of the convocation of the conference for the limitation of armaments it seems to me that the strongest reason for legitimate optimism must be found in the sentiment recently expressed to me by the British ambassador. He said: "I refuse to consider the possibility of failure because the consequences of such failure would be so appalling to the whole world."

This, after all, is the reason why when one has canvassed the great obstacles in the way of achievement one must come back to faith in success based on the appreciation of the world situation. This is the reason why the failure of the Washington conference means war between the United States and Japan. From this patent truth there can be no escape, and given the world situation, given the revelations that the last war supplied of what modern war means, a victor and vanquished, there can be no difference over abstract principles or over purely material interests could supply warrant for such a catastrophe. Moreover, since the ruin incident to such a war could not be limited to the United States and Japan, the conflict might easily prove the ruin of our civilization.

Central Factor.

Now the central fact in the situation is to be found in the position which Japan has already occupied in the Far East. If the United States is not prepared to make substantial recognition of this position, especially in Manchuria, no serious peace is possible. From the Japanese point of view the paramount necessity of Japan is assured access to necessary raw materials, and the assured access means no more and no less than the recognition that in Manchuria, whatever the legal or diplomatic position, Japan is at least in fact remiss as absolute as France in Morocco.

The second prerequisite to success is the recognition on the part of the United States that while the Anglo-Japanese alliance is unpopular in Great Britain and discredited even in Japan, it is with the British a practical necessity. The British are perfectly willing to arrive at an amicable separation from their Japanese ally, but are resolved not to be dragged into the position of a divorcee court at the behest of a third power, even if that third power is the United States.

Most Recognize Facts.

American diplomacy, which in the present instance means Mr. Hughes primarily, will have to recognize at the outset, as Mr. Wilson failed to recognize at Paris, that, however admirable and sound are abstract principles, when nations sit around the green table it is facts which must be recognized. Nearly a hundred years ago, when Canting was in conversation with Russia over questions of principle with respect to Greece, the Russian representative made this significant comment:

"We are invited," wrote Nesselrode, "to sanction a principle. We ask that there be recognition of the consequences of this principle."

Today both Great Britain and Japan are inviting Mr. Hughes' attention to the consequences of the principles which he has evoked.

We must do two things, then. First, in seeking to limit for the future any extension of special privileges in the Far East, which means China, by every nation, we must recognize largely and generously the special position which Japan has acquired in Manchuria, a position Japan will never surrender save after defeat in war. Second, we must recognize the fact that the Japanese delegation here, numbering over 100, has paid final homage to Premier Hara, whose death at the hands of an assassin has precipitated a serious situation in Japan. The delegation gathered at the home of Ambassador Shidehara late Wednesday, was addressed by Shidehara and then stood in silent homage.

The only ceremonial sign in the chamber was a photograph of Hara draped in velvet crepe and surrounded by pink and white chrysanthemums. Frock-coated and brilliantly-uniformed delegates—civil, naval and military—participated.

Ceremonies out of respect to the late Premier Hara, of Japan, having been officially performed at the Japanese embassy, the morning period of the Japanese delegation is now over. Ambassador Shidehara attended a dinner and reception tendered by Secretary of the Navy Denby Wednesday evening.

A committee of Washington correspondents, after long work, has completed the task of allotting the press seats for the open sessions of the conference.

Their job was to allot 270 seats, all that are available, among 1,500 applicants—endeavoring at the same time to give offense to no one.

Newspapers from all over the world applied for seats.

The capital's social calendar, which at this season is ordinarily particularly well-filled, is being crowded with the receptions, dinners and functions of various kinds in connection with the presence of the conference delegates. Mrs. Harding Wednesday received a group of women, including Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French ambassador, who was accompanied by Mme. Viviani, Lady Geddes, wife of the British ambassador, who had with her Lady Lee, Lady Ebor, Lady Beatty and Lady Chatterfield. The British ambassador Wednesday night entertained press representatives of England, Canada and Australia at dinner.

The minister of the Netherlands, Dr. Everwijn, was dinner host for the delegation from his country. Dr. and Mrs. Wellington Koo are to be luncheon guests Thursday of the Women's Alliance of the All Souls' Unitarian church. Dr. Koo is head of the Chinese delegation.

CLEVELAND GREETED WAR LEADER FOCH

Cleveland, Ohio, November 9.—Rain and threatening skies did not deter Cleveland citizens extending a hearty welcome to Marshal Foch today.

During the day, he was greeted by Governor Harry L. Davis and others at the home of Parnely Herriek, son of Myron T. Herriek, American ambassador to France, where he rested yesterday, visited local American Legion headquarters, headed a parade, appeared at a civic mass meeting, attended a dinner of commerce men, received an honorary degree from Western Reserve university and was entertained at a banquet tonight.

The marshal spoke only briefly at any of the functions in his honor, expressing his appreciation for the reception accorded him, and of the unity of thought any action that brought victory to the allied armies.

"The reception has been a great comfort and satisfaction, again confirming your confidence in me. Thus we have unity of thought, and we win a victory in war. By this same unity we shall win peace, a just peace of labor and of happiness," Marshal Foch said.

Extending the city's welcome, former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker declared Marshal Foch comes to us, "as the commander-in-chief of the mobilized culture of the world."

The American soldier dead in France, the former war secretary said, "the three now as a pledge in earnest of all we feel toward France."

Mr. Baker, as a trustee of Western Reserve university, presented the parchment conferring the degree of doctor of laws on Marshal Foch, President Charles E. Thwing announced during the ceremonies that France had conferred the decoration of the legion of honor on Samuel Mather, of Cleveland, prominent in the steel world. The decoration, Ambassador Herriek cabled, was awarded because of Mr. Mather's beneficence to humanity.

Marshal Foch left tonight for Pittsburgh where tomorrow he will be the guest of that city.

Enormous stocks of oatmeal have accumulated in Scotland, because the working classes are giving up eating porridge, says the dealers.

Leading Issue.

In the last analysis the Washington conference represents, as it ought to be dissolved, whose dissolution the British desire and the Japanese hardly oppose, can only be achieved by the agreement to substitute some form of Anglo-American-Japanese association to assist China.

Greatest Hope.

The greatest hope for the avoidance of war today lies in the fact that neither in Japan, nor in the United States, is there any considerable or responsible party, or group, which fails to appreciate the fact that war between the two countries is not only undesirable, but that whatever the issue on the stricken field would mean, substantial ruin to the economic and financial structures of both countries.

The true objective of the Washington conference must therefore be not the attainment of some limitation in the expenditure of the public moneys upon military and naval programs, which would mean, substantial ruin to the economic and financial structures of both countries.

To attempt to deal with the present situation in the Far East and seek to avoid hostilities between the United States and Japan merely or mainly through the medium of a limitation of armaments is like attempting to check a typhoid epidemic by caring for the victims. The source of infection having been found must be removed, and we all know that the root cause of the trouble today is found in Chinese conditions, which not only invite but insure foreign interference of which the Japanese are only the most recent.

FORMER ATLANTAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Ralph Bramlett, a former Atlanta boy, was killed in an automobile accident in New York last Monday, according to news received here by the Police Chief Beavers. The message came Wednesday from Chief Inspector Lahey, of the New York police force. Mr. Bramlett lived in Atlanta for many years and was a brother of Miss Mace Bramlett, of 361 Edgewood avenue. No details of the tragedy were

KEY MAKES NOV. 11
HOLIDAY IN ATLANTA

Pursuant to proclamations issued by the president of the United States and by the governor of Georgia, Mayor Key issued Wednesday a proclamation declaring a holiday in Atlanta for Armistice day. He urged every citizen to enter into the occasion's observance.

The mayor requested that at 11 o'clock Friday morning every activity in the city cease for two minutes, and that every citizen bow his head in silent prayer that there shall be no more war. His proclamation is as follows:

"There will be held at Five Points on Friday, November 11, at 11 o'clock, an Armistice day celebration. This is for all the people and all are invited to attend. The whole people will assemble on Mableton, Whitehall and Peachtree streets, and the colored people on Locust street. The parade is to start at 10:45 a. m. The president of the United States and the governor of Georgia, a holiday is proclaimed for this day, and all are urged to observe it, participating during the time of these exercises.

At 11 o'clock sharp, for a period of two minutes, it is requested that every activity shall cease. For this brief space, every man, woman and child, wherever he may be, is asked to engage in silent prayer to God that there shall be no more war; that man shall find no honorable way to avert war; that the substance of the people shall cease to be squandered in brutal warfare; that the flower of our youth shall no longer be despoiled in the selfish struggle of action against action.

No one can be so fervent that he cannot pay this tribute to the memory of those who have died in the holiest of his land."

JAMES L. KEY,
Mayor.

Thousands will gather at Five Points to witness the Armistice day exercises. The ceremonies will begin at 10:45 o'clock with the raising of the flag and lowering it to half-mast, followed at 11 o'clock by two minutes of silent supplication.

The principal address will then be delivered by Major George P. White, set, judge advocate of the fourth army corps area. Rev. G. B. Harris, of Kirkwood, chaplain of the "Old Hickory" division during the war, will call the roll of Fulton county dead, and Rev. William T. Stuebel will answer "Absent," in a short address.

Appropriate exercises will be held in the public schools. The high schools will participate in the program at Five Points.

At 11 o'clock all street car and vehicular traffic will stop for two minutes. The Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers has adopted a resolution to halt all elevators in buildings of the association for two minutes at that hour. All of the Atlanta railway freight houses will be closed Friday, except the hours from 7 to 10 o'clock in the morning for the delivery of perishable freight.

The Atlanta postoffice will close at midday. Carriers will make two deliveries in the business section and one in the residential section.

Merchants will decorate their windows with poppies and every person is requested to wear one as a tribute to the boys who fell in the war.

The Presbyterian brotherhood, of Decatur, will celebrate Armistice night by being host at a "wieners" supper at the Presbyterian church given to all the Boy Scouts of that city. The scouts will appear in uniform.

Following the supper Dean Johnston, of St. Philip's cathedral, will deliver an address on his experiences in France during the war.

LUTHERANS PLAN
OF CHURCH HERE

Rev. H. Renter, of Birmingham, Ala., arrived in Atlanta Tuesday evening and will spend a few days here to get in direct touch with Lutherans of the Missouri synod. A meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of O. G. Herforth, 62 Boulevard terrace, for the purpose of establishing a church in this city.

The Lutherans of the Missouri synod, numbering more than 600,000, represent the conservative wing of the Lutheran church in America. Dr. J. G. Wegener, of New Orleans, is president of the southern division.

MAY OFFER REAGAN
HINES' OLD PLACE

Judge E. L. Reagan, of McDonough, may be appointed special counsel for the state railroad commission to succeed Judge James K. Hines, resigned, in the event this appointment is not accepted by Judge J. J. Flynn, of Griffin, to whom it has been tendered by the governor. It was learned at the capitol Wednesday.

Judge Flynn is now considering whether or not he will accept the post. If he declines it is said the place will be offered to Judge Reagan. The name of Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta, also has been mentioned in connection with the place.

For many years Judge Reagan has been prominent in Georgia politics. He was chairman of the state democratic executive committee several years ago and also has served as chairman of several state conventions.

$300,000 IN REALTY

MASONIC OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED

On Thursday Center Hill lodge, F. & A. M., will have a public installation of officers, under auspices of the grand lodge of the state of Georgia. There has been arranged an interesting program in addition to having such distinguished visitors as Grand Master Bowdoin, Grand Junior Warden Richardson, Past Grand Master Bass and others.

The officers to be installed are John Burdette, W. M.; Jason A. Tugle, S. W.; Ed L. Cowan, J. W.; Bryant, treasurer; William S. Miller, S. D.; Russell B. Daniel, J. D.; Jim Mayo, S. S.; C. H. Litton, J. S.; and John Ellis, Tyler.

Special Traffic Days.

Hereafter charges of violating the city's traffic ordinances will be tried in police court on Tuesdays and Fridays. It was announced Wednesday by Judge George E. Johnson. It is believed that the cases can be handled with more dispatch by designating special days for such cases.

BROWER HEADS
NEW ASSOCIATION OF CONFECTIONERS

Organization of the Atlanta Wholesale Confectioners' association was effected at a meeting Wednesday night at the chamber of commerce, which followed a dinner given by the Sweets Publishing company.

Walter A. Brower, head of the Brower Candy company and a veteran confectioner of the south, was elected president. Other officers are: J. L. Tenenbaum, of Tenenbaum Bros., vice president; J. D. Mangham, of H. L. Schlesinger, secretary, and J. B. Zachary, of T. S. Lewis, treasurer. It was decided to hold meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. The organization is affiliated with the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' association, organized in Atlanta last March.

Attending the meeting were: H. G. Elliott, A. B. and J. L. Tenenbaum, C. W. Ford, Sam Sugarman and Abner Hirsch, J. M. Cohen and Abe Cohen, Walter A. Brower, J. B. Zachary and W. E. Gullett, J. D. Mangham, C. P. Griffith, Craddock Goins, editor of Sweets, and Mrs. Goins. Walter W. Brown, president of the Sweets Publishing company, and Mr. and Mrs. Goins were elected honorary members of the body.

SERVICES ARE HELD FOR ROBT. P. STAHL

Funeral services for Robert P. Stahl, vice president of the Davis & Freeman Jewelry company, were conducted at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, by Rev. J. Spore Lyons. Interment followed in West View cemetery. Mr. Stahl died Monday morning at his home in the Virginia apartments, at the age of 64.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Miss Berta Stahl; his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Philip Stahl, of Yorkers, N. Y.; two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Schling, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Hugo Biel, of Brookline, Mass., and a brother, Dr. Harvey Stahl, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

By Help of Prayer,
Minister Led Posse
To Hiding Slayer

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 9.—Gus A. King, who shot and killed Daniel D. Webster, near Fort Payne, Ala., was arrested at the entrance of Little river gulch, in the mountains near his home, this morning. The arrest was made by a posse led by Rev. J. G. Blossingame, a Baptist preacher.

King was found while eating his breakfast. The preacher claims he was led to King's hiding place by prayer last night.

Seek Jewelry Robber.

Police searched Wednesday for a daring robber who hurried a brick through the plateglass show window of the Lefkin Brothers jewelry store, No. 2 Whitehall street, Wednesday, and obtained rings valued at about $150. No description of the culprit was available, as few people were on the street at the time.

MARINES TAKE POSTS AS GUARDS FOR MAILS

Washington, November 9.—With a declaration of open warfare by the postoffice department on the bandits responsible for the startling series of mail robberies, 1,000 United States marines were proceeding to duty today as guards of mail trains and trucks and at postoffices in fifteen cities. They will be armed with pistols and sawed-off shotguns and are under orders from Major General LeJeune, commandant of the marine corps, to shoot to kill if necessary to prevent looting of the mails. By tonight, General LeJeune said, practically all trains in the country carrying valuable mails will be under guard.

Announcement that he had arranged for the services of the marines with the secretary of the navy was made by Postmaster-General Hays late yesterday after the matter had been discussed at the cabinet meeting and President Harding was said to have expressed approval of Mr. Hays' plan. The marines later, it was said, are to be replaced by a special force recruited for this postal service.

Mr. Hays also announced that investigation of the recent New York robbery had resulted in suspension from the service of three high post-office officials there on the ground that the robbery "should have been and could have been prevented." The investigation will be continued, he added, to determine "definitely whether or not there are others guilty of definite dereliction of duty."

ARMORED TRUCKS FOR NEW YORK.

New York, November 9.—Four armored trucks, enclosed with sheet steel except for apertures for ventilation and loopholes through which pistol or shotgun fire may be directed at bandits, have been ordered for use in transporting valuable registered mails in this city. They will be delivered within ten days.

The trucks are part of the plan outlined by Postmaster-General Hays for protection of United States mails. They will carry three armed marines. One will sit with the driver with a sawed-off shotgun loaded with buckshot on his lap. The two others will lock themselves inside the truck, which will have no outside lock. Every truck carrying valuable mail has already been manned with a marine. Other large cities have been asked to name their quota of marines needed.

Go Back to Work.

Nashville, Tenn., November 9.—It is announced here today that three hundred more mechanics have been called back to their old jobs by the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway, making a total of four hundred put back to work by the road in the past thirty days.

Irish Friends Meet.

Members of the Atlanta branch of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic met Wednesday night in the assembly hall of the Carnegie library and discussed a number of questions and business details. J. Henry Lynch, vice president of the local branch, presided.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO J. STANLEY JOYCE

Chicago, November 9.—A decree of divorce was granted J. Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumberman, by Judge Sabath in superior court today, upholding Mr. Joyce's charges that Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former chorus girl, had been guilty of misconduct with Henri Letellier, wealthy publisher and sportsman of Paris, and Evans Spaulding, New York clubman.

Joyce yesterday settled with his wife out of court for $500,000 in cash and jewels and furs valued at about $800,000. She is required to return other jewels valued at $400,000 and relinquish all claims to his estate of approximately $3,000,000.

Judge Sabath ruled Mrs. Joyce's allegations that her husband was cruel and addicted to drink were unfounded. On the other hand, the judge found that Mrs. Joyce drank, scratched and maltreated her husband on two specified occasions.

"A Week of Prayer."

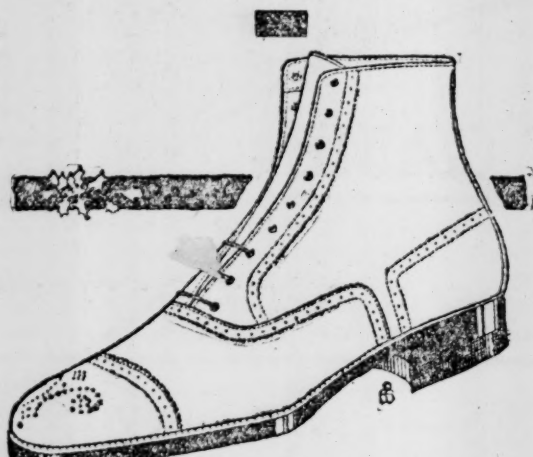

Griffin, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—The various Methodist churches in Griffin this week are observing "a week of prayer." The observation began Sunday, when Rev. Pierce, of the First Methodist church, preached a special sermon on the subject. Services will be held in all the churches throughout the entire week.

Klan Probe Ordered.

Asheville, N. C., November 9.—An investigation of the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Asheville was ordered today by Judge Walter E. Brock, who charged superior court grand jury to conduct such an inquiry and return true bills of indictment against persons found to have usurped powers of the courts contrary to law.

Mrs. J. E. Hays Again Expected to Head Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs

Athens Making Strong Fight for Convention Next Year—Annual Reports Are Read.

BY LOUISE DOOLY.
Constitution Staff Correspondent.
Savannah, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—After important sessions replete with excellent reports, strong resolutions and addresses, the election of officers of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, holding its silver anniversary convention here, and selection of the next convention city, loomed as the most interesting events of Friday.

Mrs. J. E. Hays, of Montezuma, is expected to be re-elected president without opposition. Supported by their city administration and Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, the club women of Athens are making a strong fight for the next convention, and it was indicated tonight that their invitation would be accepted.

The DeSoto hotel is the seething center of the interests of the thinking women of Georgia this week, with the headquarters of the convention established there. The credentials committee reported today that there are 308 delegates in the convention.

Caucuses in the hotel parlors fill all the intervals between program of business and entertainment, but the politics of the convention concern "measures, not men." Members of the nominating committee appointed by the president in addition to the members of each district are Mrs. Walter Purdom, of Sparta; Mrs. B. M. Boykin, of Atlanta; Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Tifton.

Mrs. T. C. Grise, of Dawson, who conducted the state poetry contest, tonight announced that Mrs. L. C. Warren, of the Griffin Woman's club, had won the prize. Honorable mention was made of poems by Mrs. Agnes Neville Davis, of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, of Western college, Macon; and a poem entitled "Woman," from which the name was lost.

In the song contest the song submitted by Miss Nan Stephens, of Atlanta, received the vote of the judges. The song submitted by C. M. Gibbs, of Savannah, received by the popular vote of the convention audience on recommendation of the executive board the contest will be kept open another year on account of the great number of requests from all over the state for more time.

Treasurer's Report.
When Mrs. Robert T. Danter, state treasurer, read her report at the Wednesday morning meeting there was a most amusing contrast between the amount of money collected and expended and the amount and diversity of work being done by the federation as reflected in the reports of the various departments of work. The most striking feature of Mrs. Danter's report was the balance this year of $738.34, which is larger than ever before. The amount received during the year was $2,548.02. This included $100.26 interest from Ella F. White memorial fund.

Mrs. Danter stated that there are four hundred and forty-nine clubs now affiliated with the state federation. Recognition of the value of the Georgia federation in the memorial campaign fund of the University of Georgia was expressed in a letter to Mrs. Hays from Harry Hodgson, of Athens, chairman of the campaign committee, who asked that the president remove to the membership the gratitude of the committee for interest and support given by so many of Georgia's noble women.

Strong Resolution.
Following this letter was a resolution offered by Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., of Atlanta, to the effect that since recent drives for the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech rivaled the attention of the people upon the state's educational institutions, the Georgia federation should take care of the educational institutions of the state in a manner sufficient to enable them to fulfill their purpose for the youth of Georgia.

Strong support was given by the convention to the Woman's News Service, Inc., and speeches were made supporting its purpose to give women news from the world's standpoint—to reflect what thinking women are doing all over the world. The state convention voted to buy two shares of stock at fifty dollars each as a token of its cooperation.

Anniversary Gifts.
Silver anniversary gifts from the Savannah federation to all delegates were booklets in white and silver, which contain a story of the Georgia federation's foundation, by Miss Rosa Woodberry, state parliamentarian, and a pioneer member of the Georgia federation.

The Savannah federation also presented to Mrs. Hays, state president, a convention pin in silver. On account of the illness of William Wilson, of Savannah, whose wife is a valued member of the federation, and was unable to attend the convention, a rising vote of sympathy was extended Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

The announcement was made of a telegram from National Forester Brickner in Washington was made by Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., which stated that, in compliance with the request of the Georgia federation and the Georgia forestry board, a survey would at once be made of the Cherokee national reservation looking to the possible establishment of a national park out of a part of the reservation.

Gift to Mrs. Otley.
The announcement of a telegram from Mrs. J. K. Otley that she would be unable to attend was received with universal sympathy and regret. The message sent by Mrs. Otley to the convention, in place of her anniversary address, was read at the night session by Mrs. Hays, and Mrs. Hugh Willet made the announcement of the gift to Mrs. Otley of a platinum locket from a group of federated club friends and the incident became a ceremony of love from the organization with which Mrs. Otley has worked since she was in its organization. Mrs. Otley's message to the federation follows:

"Important duties, undertaken more

Prominent Clubwoman

Mrs. John K. Otley.

MRS. JOHN K. OTLEY.

than a quarter of a century ago, for her presence at the silver anniversary of this federation of women, which has been the object of my loyal devotion for twenty-five short and very happy years.

"I regret that I cannot be with you all in Savannah this week is one of those things which cannot be asked in terms.

"In thanking you for having asked me to speak to you some words of reminiscence upon this occasion, may I take the liberty of adding a bit of counsel for the splendid years which lie between our silver and our golden anniversary?

"It is, indeed, a far cry from the eleven original clubs over which I presided in 1896, when the Georgia federation came into being to our present first vice president's report of 100 clubs in new membership this year.

"But there were certain qualities which those pioneers brought to their work which counted for more than size, numbers or material achievement.

"I think the first big asset of those early workers (and the one I should be most sorry if we should lose), was their selflessness.

"They worked to make better the world about them, and they do not glorify themselves as individuals, or even to exploit their organization just because it belonged to them.

Willingness to Study.
"They were quick, therefore, to recognize and magnify the achievements of each of the other, and a lot of excellent teamwork was the result.

"And because they have always had in view results, not credit, the federation has known how to work well with other agencies for a common cause.

"The other trait of the earlier federated workers which I should like to commend to the splendid personnel of today is the willingness to study the problems with which our activities are engaged.

"The federation of that older time was literally a 'student body' and it was the fact that we never attacked problems until we knew all that it was possible for us to learn about them, which has given the federation women the public confidence which we have so long enjoyed.

"Do not be afraid of your own brains! Use them freely and do not try to do things until you know them!

"And a little more patience, please! 'Accustom yourselves to sit quietly at meetings and, with a hearing ear, listen to discussions of our problems.

"Do not come to an executive meeting just to give the report of your own work! You will learn a lot by listening to the others tell about theirs!

"Do take time to give genuine personal study to the questions for which the federation holds you responsible.

"How many of us, for instance, have even read the measures which we are endorsing in our congress or the general assembly of our state?

"My friends, let me then, let us shall lose none of the sterling quality which has made a shining mark of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs from 1896 to 1921 but that we shall to this quality add a quantity which, by our golden anniversary, in 1946, will include all right-minded Georgia women who are willing to 'love one another and work together in strong, united fellowship for the upbuilding of the whole.'

Annual Reports.
Annual reports of the state officers were presented and messages from the general federation council by Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Tifton, representative of the state president, and Mrs. Samuel H. Hannon, general federation director.

The endorsement and educational work of the federation was reflected in reports by Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, for the State Association for Education of Georgia, and Mrs. J. E. Hays, for the State Association for Education of Georgia, and Mrs. J. E. Hays, for the State Association for Education of Georgia.

Reception.
A reception and buffet supper by the United Daughters of the Confederacy at their chapter house was a beautiful event preceding the night session.

At a meeting of the executive board, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson offered a resolution that the board send a cablegram of sympathy to the members of the British Women's Conference on Limitation of Armaments to be held on Friday in London. A resolution by Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., passed that the Georgia federation give its active co-operation to the national educational campaign for the eradication of syphilis.

An amendment by Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, of Savannah, urged that all clubwomen, when they speak of cancer, endeavor to remove the reproach which tradition has attached to it, and the dangerous result of its concealment by the poison disease.

One of the most important points to come up for decision in this convention will be the action of the executive board in September, recommending necessary changes in the constitution, which will automatically take with the General Federation Women's clubs, all clubs affiliated with the Georgia federation and that dues be raised accordingly.

The matter will not be acted upon until Thursday.

New Clubs Accredited.
The morning session was given a tremendous impetus of interest

Mrs. John K. Otley Honored By Convention of Clubs

BY LOUISE DOOLY.

Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Savannah, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—One of the outstanding events of the session of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs' convention, tonight was the reading of the message of Mrs. John K. Otley, of Atlanta, to the organization, and the presentation to Mrs. Otley of a gift of love, a platinum locket, a little group of club women who have worked with her since club work was begun in Georgia.

Mrs. Otley's message reviewed the organization of the federation twenty-five years ago in Atlanta at a meeting over which she presided, and at which there were handed together eleven clubs. She compared that modest start with the record for its anniversary year, when as announced this morning by Mrs. A. P. Brantley, it has added in the past eleven months one hundred new clubs, with a combined membership of one thousand and now numbers approximately forty-two thousand members.

Mrs. Otley's message while comprehensive of the multiplicity of interests with which the federation has concerned itself since the beginning, and touching dramatically upon its high achievements, had none of the traditional dryness of a history, but was a moving drama, full of action, and colored by the courage and devotion and unflinching patriotic zeal of the womanhood of Georgia, as represented in this organized group.

In the minds of those who heard the message and in the minds of all Georgia club women, the history of Mrs. Otley is inextricably mingled with the history of the federation.

First Meeting.
She presided over the meeting at which the Georgia Federation came into existence, when, in response to the call of the Atlanta Woman's club, eleven women's clubs met in the old club rooms in the Grand opera house in 1896, and formed the state organization which now numbers hundreds of clubs and thousands of individual women.

Mrs. William B. Lowe, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, became president of the newly formed state federation, and Mrs. Otley succeeded Mrs. Lowe as second president of Atlanta Woman's club. She is, therefore, ranking past president of that body at this time.

Mrs. Otley was chairman of program of the Georgia Federation's first convention held in Rome in 1897.

During her twenty-five years of continuous service for the Georgia Federation, her record has been unique in that she has never held any office but has filled the chairmanship of nearly every working committee.

She was chairman of the industrial committee during the year when the fight for child labor legislation was at its hottest point. As chairman of handicrafts, she held the first state-wide sales bazaar of handicrafts in the Atlanta Woman's club rooms in the Grand building. She was chairman of the education committee during the years when Tallulah Falls school and Students' Aid federation were passing from the state of dreams into splendid realities.

She was a large factor in the federation's long pedagogical campaign for better teaching methods, including normal training for Georgia teachers and kindergarten, domestic science and manual training instruction in Georgia schools and the opening of the doors of the state university to women.

Supported Movement.
She gave much effort to aiding those who led the fight for farm training for Georgia women as well as for Georgia men and she answered (from the conflicting procedure of other states) Georgia's first plan for the probation system of punishment for juvenile offenders and the fight for Georgia's first adoption of a probation system, which was in the city court of Atlanta.

Her work for legislation began with the Georgia Federation's first bill (introduced by Hon. Pope Brown, which strove unsuccessfully to make women eligible to the office of county superintendent of schools) and has continued to the present time.

Mrs. Otley was active in securing the creation by the legislature of the Georgia library commission and has been its chairman for approximately twenty years.

From the vantage gained of this position she has continuously and effectively cooperated in the library extension work which is so important an activity in the Georgia Federation.

Perhaps no other woman in the state has worked more persistently for better things for Georgia.

National Office.
She was for four years general federation secretary for Georgia and was one of a committee of five from when Mrs. A. P. Brantley first vice president and chairman of club extension, announced in her annual report to the Georgia Federation that within the past eleven months of 95 new clubs, which have a combined membership of more than 1,000.

Other clubs which are in their applications and their dues, but not until after the expiration of the time limit for representation at this convention, bring the number to more than 100. Membership in the state federation is now approximately at 42,000.

Study of Citizenship.
More than 90 per cent of the federated clubs studying citizenship was a striking phase of the report made by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, chairman of the division of citizenship training.

The saving of the board of public welfare to the state, and citizen education, notably that of the Atlanta Woman's club, on July 4, which was cited as an example by the general federation, were big features of Mrs. Richardson's report.

Community Service.
"The women of Georgia," said Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., of Atlanta, chairman of the department of community service, in her report, "have caught the spirit of community service in a marked degree. They are learning that the spirit of the world is the spirit of the community realization.

Our Lord Jesus Christ sounded the secret of world service when He said, on one occasion, to His disciples: 'Let us go into the next town, also.'

Mrs. Thornton's epitome of the work of the twelve districts, while necessarily brief, showed a remarkable amount of work being done, from clean-up campaigns to county fairs; from the building of community houses and the conduct of health campaigns to pageants among the foreign-born in the cities in the cause of Americanization.

Even greater reduction is expected before the end of November. Each day reports are made on the number of improperly packed and marked packages by the railway offices to the chamber of commerce.

After passing over Atlanta and seeing the sights of Peachtree without losing an eye, the flock of geese that called on the city late Sunday afternoon en route south, dipped low to scrutinize Hawkinsville, became groggy from thinking of the white way lights, got shot at and nearly arrested by the police force, according to a letter received by The Constitution.

But the policeman was on a "wild goose chase," and his efforts went for naught except to startle the slumbering population. The nocturnal visitors were described by A. M. Thomas, who wrote:

"Monday morning, about 2 o'clock, there came over this city a flock of geese, about 150 or more, so the night policeman told me, and he took a shot at them with his pistol, as they were flying so low, and had he had a shotgun, he said, he would have gotten a few.

"The lights on the streets here got them blinded and they lost their way, it seems, and they flew around over town again and again for about two hours. The main point is, how fast do geese fly? Perhaps that was the same flock for your article stated that they passed over your city in the afternoon headed south."

Geese Groggy From White Way Of Hawkinsville

OFFERS ATLANTA RESTING PLACE FOR TROUP'S BODY

Following reports that the tomb of former Governor R. L. Troup in a Wheeler county cemetery had been damaged by vandals and the statement by Dr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist, that the case should give attention, T. J. Eady, president of the Mable Cemetery company, Atlanta, declared in a letter to The Constitution Wednesday that he will gladly furnish a choice lot, put the monument in first-class condition, pay freight and all other expenses and place the remains and monument in Mable cemetery, "where it will forever be protected from vandals." He says it would be more appreciative of the honor.

Mr. Eady declares that he will immediately try to get permission of relatives to carry out his plan. Mr. Eady is a native of Troup county and points to the hundreds of Troup county people now living in Atlanta who would like to have the monument placed in an Atlanta cemetery.

Arms Conference League Substitute, Declares Mayson

The disarmament conference is a plan to get around the league of nations as proposed by former President Wilson, James H. Mayson, attorney, told the Masonic club at its weekly luncheon Wednesday. Mr. Mayson paid a high tribute to the former president.

The league of nations, the city attorney stated, would not only take out all questions involving disarmament, but would also bring about a better understanding in affairs of international importance.

Mr. Mayson also criticized the United States senate for its failure to ratify the treaty Mr. Wilson brought back from Versailles and stated that similar serious plans the senate had occurred during the terms of McKinley, Taft and Roosevelt. He predicted that public sentiment will become so disgusted with such treaty power in the hands of the senate that some day another method of treaty ratification will be devised and by a constitutional amendment the senate will be shared of its present treaty-ratifying power.

Other sentiment which was expressed at the regular meeting of next Wednesday and calling on the club members to attend the Georgia Productive dinner at the Auditorium Thursday instead was passed.

It was announced at the meeting that Lawrence Everhart donated a sum of $2,000 for the Georgia Children's Home society, which the club is sponsoring. It was announced that the Masonic club has appropriated money for hiring an additional trained nurse and that the club has bought a cow for the home society.

ORDER ISSUED TO ABANDON H. & F. S. RAILWAY

Macon, Ga., November 9.—Judge H. A. Matthews, of superior court, today signed an order authorizing the abandonment of the Hawkinsville and Florida Southern railway, which has been in the hands of a receiver more than a year. A statement presented to court showed that the company lost $126,212 during the year ending June 30.

GOOD RESULTS COME FROM PACKAGE MONTH

Fifty per cent reduction of imperfect billing, marking and packing of freight and express packages has resulted from the "perfect package month" campaign, which was inaugurated here November 1 by local shippers and receivers in conjunction with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, it is stated.

Even greater reduction is expected before the end of November. Each day reports are made on the number of improperly packed and marked packages by the railway offices to the chamber of commerce.

PLANS ALMOST READY FOR FARM CONVENTION

Plans to receive the third annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation when it is held here from November 21 to 23 are nearing completion, according to Secretary Saunders, of the Georgia federation, Wednesday afternoon.

Entertainment features will take a back seat during this convention when every state in the United States and Canada will be represented by delegations approximating 6,000 serious farmers. Most of the entertainment will be of an instructive kind.

The 150 state delegates will be taken on a three-day automobile tour, after the convention, by the Georgia association, which will take in middle, west, south and east Georgia. At the state agricultural college at Athens a cutout exhibit will be shown the tourists and all visitors who wish to see it. The exhibition will show cotton at all stages of growth and the way the boll weevil works. There will be also a miniature cotton gin on exhibit.

Cooperation from all parts of the state is being received by headquarters in Atlanta. The Crisp and Ben Hill county federations have promised to supply 1,500 four-ounce bottles of Georgia cane syrup for visitors. Jefferson and Dodge counties will give each visitor a quart of a pound of sugar shell pecans, and arrangements are under way to give the visitors Georgia peanuts in some form.

The Atlanta Convention bureau, chamber of commerce and local hotel associations are also co-operating. It is planned to give the visitors a special menu at all local restaurants and hotels composed entirely of Georgia products, with the exception of coffee and a dessert vanilla. Lee Ashcraft, president of the chamber of commerce, has promised to give free tickets to the Georgia Tech-Auburn football game to the regional directors and national officers at the convention.

LIQUIDATING AGENT FOR BANK DISCUSSED

The appointment of a liquidating agent to take charge of the affairs of the American Bank and Trust company, of Savannah, which was recently taken over by the state banking department, was discussed Wednesday with Superintendent T. R. Bennett, of the banking department, by Valmore Leiby and Julius Morgan, Savannah business men. It was understood that Mr. Morgan was an applicant for the place.

J. A. Perry Returns.
James A. Perry, associate member of the state railroad commission, returned to the capital Wednesday from Macon, where he attended a meeting of 600 members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, representing five lodges. Mr. Perry delivered the principal address at the meeting, which was held to carry out plans for raising funds to pay for the erection of the Robert T. Daniel Orphans' home at Griffin, which is now under construction.

ELECTRICAL WORK RETARDED, SAYS WORKERS' HEAD

Spending the day in the city, James P. Noonan, international president of the Electrical Workers of the World, gave his views on the electrical situation in Georgia and the country at large to a representative of The Constitution, in his apartments at the Piedmont hotel.

Mr. Noonan is making a survey of public utilities over the country for the compilation of statistics for publication.

He declared that, from all indications, there is an unnecessary retarding of electrical development throughout the United States since the war period, and said that it is his purpose to obtain all available data, in order that a remedy might be found for prevalent conditions, if possible.

Especially in Georgia, Mr. Noonan stated, there is an arrested development of water power on which electrical energy depends, and because of this several thousand are out of employment and might be engaged in useful industry if the condition were corrected. Inability to float loans, said Mr. Noonan, was at the bottom of the water and electric power trouble.

PARKER NAMED TO SUCCEED FIRE MISHAP VICTIM

O. J. Parker, captain at fire station No. 1, was elected Wednesday afternoon by the board of firemasters as assistant fire chief to succeed the late Assistant Chief S. B. Chapman, who lost his life on September 28, while battling flames in an abandoned piano factory on Decatur street. The assistant chief was groping through the smoke-filled building and stepped through an open elevator shaft, falling three stories to the basement.

R. C. King, lieutenant at station No. 1, was elected as captain to succeed Parker, and W. W. Fleming, driver at No. 1, was elected as lieutenant to fill King's post. The nominations were made by Fire Chief W. B. Cody.

GUYON ALIENATION SUIT IS DISMISSED

At the request of counsel for the plaintiff, the $25,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Benjamin R. Holton, in the Fulton superior court, against Joe Guyon, Atlanta baseball player, was dismissed Wednesday. The suit alleges that Guyon had been too friendly with Mrs. Gertrude Holton and that the latter's husband had learned of the alleged infidelity from Guyon through a letter written by Mrs. Holton to the defendant.

The day before the alienation suit was filed against Guyon, Mrs. Holton filed suit for divorce from Holton, alleging that he would not work and "forced her to resort to immorality to support him." The suit for divorce is still pending, according to John S. Highsmith, attorney for Mrs. Holton.

Pioneer Phone Users Guests At Luncheon

One of the most remarkable occasions of the kind ever held in Atlanta was the reunion of pioneer telephone subscribers in 1884, which was held in the operators' luncheon room of the main exchange of the Southern Bell company at noon, Wednesday.

Among the pioneers present were some of the men most prominent in present-day activities of Atlanta and those who in the past contributed substantially to the city's progressive development.

The guests were met at the entrance of the building and escorted to the luncheon room by a committee of young lady operators.

Among the pioneers were a number of former mayors of Atlanta, including J. S. Mitchell, Sr., Asa G. Candler, Captain James W. English and Robert F. Maddox, and one former governor, Joseph M. Brown.

The luncheon was opened with a talk by Mrs. Annie Clarke, who welcomed the visitors on behalf of the 700 operators in Atlanta and expressed the happiness of the operators at having them present on this occasion.

Greeted by President.

President Brown, of the company, also greeted the visitors and in a brief talk referred to the growth of the telephone system, which has kept pace with the growth of Atlanta, and compared the city of 1884 and the telephone system of 1884 with conditions of today. As an indication of the company's progressive policy he referred to the new million and a half dollar central office which will be placed in service next year.

He introduced W. T. Gentry, former president of the company, who was manager in 1884, and Mr. Gentry spoke in affectionate terms of his long service with the company and his cordial relations with the subscribers in Atlanta.

Miss Minnie E. Cole, who was a clerk in the office in 1884, and still an employee of the company, was introduced and expressed her pride and pleasure in being present on this occasion.

Thomas J. Peoples, vice president of the Atlanta National bank, who was one of the first night operators employed by the telephone company, was introduced and greeted with applause.

G. C. Bowden, present manager of the company, was also present.

Mr. Brown expressed his regret at not being able to call upon everyone present and stated that he had selected two of the oldest and best known subscribers to say a few words.

He then called upon Judge George Hillyer and Captain English in turn, both of whom referred enthusiastically to the rapid growth and progress of Atlanta and the splendid development of the telephone company. They paid tribute to the management of the company and to the loyalty and efficiency of the employees, and expressed themselves as happy to be present on such an occasion.

Mayor Key Introduced.

Mayor James L. Key, who was present, representing the city of Atlanta, which was one of the first subscribers to telephone service, was introduced by Mr. Brown and declared that as mayor of Atlanta he was proud of every institution which kept such splendid pace with the growth of the city and had kept faith with the public in its treatment of its patrons and in the considerate and gentle manner in which it dealt with its employees.

Following the luncheon the guests were given an opportunity to visit the local and long distance operating rooms in the main office and were shown the remarkable development in the art of telephony which has taken place since 1884.

Advertising Waycross.

Waycross, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—W. A. Seaman, secretary of the chamber of commerce, today received 5,000 copies of a booklet describing Waycross and Ware county. The booklets were prepared by the Georgia association, working in cooperation with the chamber of commerce, and are part of the follow-up literature that the association is using to advertise Georgia.

NOTED LANDSCAPE ENGINEER GUEST AT CLUB AFFAIR

Warren H. Manning, of North Billerica, Mass., is in the city as the guest of Hugh Richardson.

He was entertained at the Capital City club yesterday, the following gentlemen being present: Lee Ashcraft, John W. Grant, Clark Howell, Frank P. Rice, John B. Nevin, Robert C. Alston, Paul Etheridge, Dr. W. L. Gilbert, Hugh Richardson, A. S. Adams, Warren H. Manning.

Mr. Manning is one of the most famous of all American landscape engineers, and is a city and county planner of national reputation. He was associated for years with the great landscape artist, Olmstead; now has under his supervision some of the most elaborate estates in the United States, and is the author of successful city plans of some of the largest American cities.

SALESMANSHIP CLASS TO OPEN TONIGHT

There will be a class in salesmanship conducted by the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, starting Thursday night in the assembly hall of the Chamber of Commerce building, at 8 o'clock. Six lectures, in all, will be given and, at the end of the course, a paper is to be written, not in excess of 200 words, by those attending the series. For the best paper a silver loving cup is offered. The lectures are open only to junior chamber members.

Among the speakers for different nights are Harrison Jones, E. P. Martin and R. G. Guinn. Others who have been asked to address these young men are Forrest Adair, Preston Arkwright and Joseph McCall.

Shine Off for Meet.

Roland L. Shine, local scout leader, left Atlanta Wednesday morning for Anniston, Ala., to attend the sixth district conference of the Boy Scouts of America, which includes Georgia, Alabama, North and South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee.

Mr. Shine will return to Atlanta Monday.

TRIAL OF TOM CONDON WILL BEGIN TODAY

The trial of Tom Condon, formerly of Macon, charged with murder as the result of the death of Dr. J. A. Pickard, well-known druggist of Atlanta, will begin Thursday in the criminal division of the superior court. Condon is said to have struck Dr. Pickard a blow on the night of August 14, which resulted in his death several days later.

Condon contends that Dr. Pickard was trying to interfere with some women, who were trying to start a car which had stopped in front of the poolroom when the altercation took place. Condon is at present in the Fulton county Tower in default of a $12,500 bond.

WALKER'S RETURN NEVER SERVED

Although requisition papers for the return from Texas of John D. Walker, former Georgia banker, charged with embezzlement in indictments returned by the Hancock county grand jury, were issued October 22 and turned over to Sheriff J. M. Jackson, of Hancock county, the papers have not been served on Walker, according to information obtained Wednesday at the governor's office.

Walker is wanted in Hancock county to stand trial on an indictment charging embezzlement in connection with disappearance of the city of Sparta's sinking fund from the vault of the First National bank of Sparta, of which Walker was at that time president. The alleged embezzlement occurred five years ago.

At the governor's office Wednesday it was learned that a request had been made to the governor that the attorney-general or some other lawyer, be sent to Austin, Texas, to handle the extradition case. The governor was absent from his office Tuesday, but it was stated that the governor declined to detail the attorney-general to the case and declined to send another lawyer on the ground that the state does not have any fund with which to pay the $300 expenses that would be incurred and that the state did not want to set a precedent in this case which would have to be followed in other cases.

It was learned that Sheriff Jackson did not take the requisition papers to Texas. Neither did he send them there. However, it was learned that he sent the governor of Texas a transcript of the evidence in the case which was presented to the grand jury.

Sherwood Phaxton Here.

Sherwood Phaxton, manager of the Chatham hotel at Savannah, arrived in Atlanta early Wednesday morning for business engagements. Mr. Phaxton is well known in Atlanta and is stopping at the Kimball house.

Auto Reported Stolen.

A 1920 model touring car was reported stolen from in front of the Grady hospital Wednesday afternoon by Dr. A. J. Ayers. Dr. Ayers claims that he saw the thief drive the car up the street, but did not at the time know that it was his car. The tag number of the missing car is 80580 while the motor number is 520201.

FOUR MEN HELD IN BARTON KILLING

Preliminary Hearing in Alleged Slaying Results in Murder Charges Against Lithonia Men.

Cory, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Charged with murder in connection with the alleged killing of Will Barton, a young man supposed to have lived in Eastman, Jeff Aycock, Grover Reagan, Parks New and Curtis Powell, all of Lithonia, were Wednesday afternoon held without bond for action of the grand jury by Justice of the Peace P. G. Tucker. This action followed a preliminary

SCIENCE'S LATEST YEAST DISCOVERY

Chemist, Through New Process,
Produces a Yeast Wafer
Known as "Yeastose" That Is Delicious In Taste and Will Not Form Stomach Gases.

Yeastose Wafers Contain Other
Body-Building Ingredients
That Increase Appetite,
Weight and Energy, Aid Digestion and Clear Up the Complexion.

The Most Complete Vitamine
Product Yet Developed and Fine For Children. A Fifteen
Day Treatment For One Dollar.

Realizing the importance of vitamins to the human body, a chemist and dietitian began years ago to perfect a wafer that would contain all three vitamins, making hundreds of scientific laboratory tests and experiments, finally evolving "Yeastose Wafers," the most complete vitamin product yet produced.

The component parts of Yeastose Wafers are Yeast, Cod Liver Oil, Maltose, Lactose, Saccharose, Orange, Peppermint, Whole Powdered Milk and Hydrochloric Acid. The three vitamins represented by A, B and C are: A, Cod Liver Oil and Milk; B, Yeast and Milk; C, Orange and Milk, plus the digestive aid of Hydrochloric Acid. Have you seen any other formula the equal of this?

Any physician will tell you that this formula will give quicker and better results in cases of loss of appetite, weight and energy, due to impaired nutrition, as Yeastose does not rely upon yeast alone for restoring to the body its normal health and vigor.

Yeastose Wafers have a delicious flavor, and by a special process, each yeast cell is seeded, which inactivates the yeast, and positively does away with stomach gases. Its delicious taste, and the absence of gas makes Yeastose Wafers ideal for children as well as grown-ups.

The yeast cells used in Yeastose Wafers are from combined yeast cultures, and every flask of culture is microscopically examined and counted before put into wafer form. Each Yeastose Wafer has an average count of five million yeast cells, which is more than double the average count in any similar preparation, and you get a fifteen day treatment for one dollar. Any well stocked drug store can supply Yeastose Wafers.—(adv.)

hearing before Justice Tucker, at which Thelma Clemmons, of Atlanta, a woman upon whose statement the four men were arrested, described the alleged killing of young Barton by the men, who, she said, threw his body in the river, after robbing him. The woman is held in Lithonia as a material witness.

No man named Barton, answering the description of the young man supposed to have been slain, is known in the vicinity, nor has his body been found. The story of the woman is the only indication, it was pointed out at the trial, that anyone had been killed. Thelma Clemmons states that on Sunday morning, October 16, after she and the men had gone to a pasture by the South river, two of the party left, and later returned with a gun. She said they gave him whiskey with snuff in it, and that when the man became ill, they killed him with a stick. Upon re-examination with the men, she said, she was seized and bound to a tree, from which she later was released by a negro.

Sunday night, she states, she was in the pasture with Reagan, New and Powell, who told her that if she tried to leave them they would kill her, she claims. Watching her chance, according to her story, the woman escaped from the pasture and met Jeff Aycock by the road. Together they started about towards Lithonia.

The woman was arrested "on suspicion" at 11 o'clock Sunday night by two officers who encountered her and Aycock in the road, although the man was not molested. Following her arrest, she told the story of the killing. Her account was at first not believed by officers, but subsequent investigation led them to believe that there might be some truth in her statements. The arrest of the four men followed.

ACQUITTAL VERDICT RETURNED BY JURY IN EASON CASE

Sylvester, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—The jury in the case of Watson Eason, on trial for the murder of T. F. Leary, on October 21, returned a verdict of not guilty tonight, after two hours' deliberation. Eason and Leary were brothers-in-law and prominent Worth county farmers.

GEORGIA CROPS
BADLY DAMAGED

In 1921, the average yield per acre was 564 pounds against 600 last year. The total production was 9,475,000 pounds as compared with 16,020,000 in 1920. Peanuts fell below last year's mark, while sweet potatoes showed a loss in yield per acre, but an increase in total production.

Damaging Drouth.
"The bright prospect for good crop yields this year has gone glimmering," the report stated. "Continued hot and generally dry weather through the late summer caused considerable deterioration in all crops nearly matured but unharvested, reducing average yields of most crops to less than the ten-year average. Potatoes and peanuts, peas and beans and sugarcane suffered acutely for want of adequate moisture.

"In the case of many crops, however, total production will exceed that of last year; but for the most part that is because of the planting of larger acreages rather than to superior yields. But life is not all gloom on the farms in spite of the reduced yields and the low price of cotton. Fields and lots are filled to overflowing with succulent hay, corn cobs are bulging to the limit, hogs and cattle are fat and in abundance, and the farmers are facing the invading winter with an untroubled mind and an aggressive confidence."

Real Optimism.
"The superficial optimism that hung like a curtain over the farms during the summer has developed into the genuine article. By dint of hard labor the farmers have produced an abundance of food and feedstuffs, and they know that ultimately the surplus will be turned through modern marketing methods into good American dollars and cents.

"Shocked and stunned by the evils wrought by the open crop system," the report continued, "the farmers of Georgia diversified this year more than ever. Of paramount importance is the record corn crop and the diminutive cotton crop—the shortest cotton crop in over forty years.

"Georgia farmers produced this year a record corn crop. More land is under corn than in any other southern state excepting Texas; and Georgia has three-fourths as much corn acreage as has the Lone Star state. And she has as much land planted to corn as has North and South Carolina and Florida combined. She has over half as much land in the state as has the state of Iowa, which leads all in corn acreage.

Corn Acreage.
"Georgia's corn acreage this year totals 5,865,000 acres. Of this acreage—the biggest ever planted—87,975,490 bushels were produced, an average of 15 bushels to the acre. On the lowlands and in the valleys some splendid yields were obtained; but on the red hills yields were cut considerably by the drought and by the slim use of commercial fertilizers. Average corn yields have improved very little in Georgia during the past fifty years. About 83 per cent of the crop is estimated to be of merchantable quality. Generally, a large percentage of Georgia's corn grades "mixed" because it contains a slight amount of straw-colored grains. Of the total acreage given over to corn this year, 3.5 per cent is believed to have been cut for silos, averaging about 3 tons per acre of silage. Of the old corn crop (1920 crop), 2,677,500 bushels were estimated to be on the farms on November 1; that is to say, about 3.5 per cent.

The average weight per measured bushel of small grains in Georgia this year is:

Wheat, 58.3 pounds; oats, 31.4 pounds.

"The cotton crop this year is notable for its smallness. Prior to November 1, 736,900 bales were ginned, according to the census. The crop is believed to be about all picked and ginned at this time. The crop, based on September 25 condition, indicated a probable yield of 95 pounds of lint per acre, and a total production of about 720,000 bales. Not since 1878 has Georgia made so small a crop. The shortage is due in part to reduction of 28 per cent in the planted acreage as compared with 1920; the non-use of high grade commercial fertilizers; adverse climatic conditions; and the further fact that the boll weevil beat the farmers to their crop.

Irish Potatoes.
"Irish potatoes averaged 75 bushels to the acre, giving a total production of 1,725,000 bushels; last year production was 1,628,000 bushels, with an average yield of 74 bushels. Quality this year is 85 per cent.

"Sweet potatoes averaged 85 bushels per acre, indicating a production of 14,110,000 bushels, against 93 bushels and a total production of 13,764,000 bushels last year. There was about 12 per cent more acreage under sweet potatoes in 1921 than in 1920. Quality averages 85 per cent against 90 on quality for the past ten years. About 35 per cent of the crop was grown for market.

"Peanuts (grain): Yield is estimated this year at 30 bushels per acre; the ten-year average yield is 26 bushels. Acreage, as compared with 1920, is nearly 20 per cent less. Total production this year estimated at about 5,970,000 bushels; last year 7,610,000.

"Tobacco: Average yield per acre this year 564 pounds against 600 pounds last year. Total production 9,475,000 pounds; last year 16,020,000 pounds. The quality of the 1921 crop is given as 67 per cent and compares with the ten-year average of 88. There were 5,800 less acres planted to tobacco in Georgia in 1921 than in 1920. At time of harvest the crop was regarded as poor to fair. Early in the season dry weather checked growth in counties where the crop is grown commercially; and the cold weather in the spring made cutworms active, causing the plants to sharpen and button out too soon. Some damage was also sustained in localized areas from hail. In some sections the crop was a near failure. Late tobacco sustained considerable damage from excessive rains.

Sorghum.
"Grain sorghum averaged 20 bushels of grain per acre, about 95 per cent of the normal, harvested on the usual acreage. Grain sorghum for forage averaged 2.2 tons per acre; the area harvested was about 93 per cent of the usual.

"Peas and beans: Hot dry weather during late summer cut peas and beans short in many counties. Yield of peas per acre was 75 per cent of normal; harvested on the usual acreage. Yield of forage per acre estimated at 82 per cent of the normal. Area harvested about the usual.

"Sorghum syrup averaged 94 gallons per acre against 96 gallons, the ten-year average. Total production this year is estimated at 1,304,000 gallons, compared with 1,410,000 gallons last year. There were 16,000 acres planted to sorghum for syrup this year against 15,000 acres in 1920.

"Apples: Total production averaged this year about 40 per cent of a full crop—about 960,000 bushels. Quality about 68 per cent. Georgia's commercial crop this year is estimated at 240,000 bushels.

"Grapes: Total production about 73 per cent of a full crop. Quality 83 per cent.

"Pears: Total production about 61 per cent of a full crop. Quality 82 per cent.

"Pecans: The pecan crop is expected to be considerably better this year than last; but not so good as promised earlier in the season. Protracted drouth and insect pests in localized areas diminished the crop prospect substantially. Nevertheless, many large groves report the crop a heavy one, and say that the boughs are bending under the burden of the nuts. The cooler weather is causing the burrs to open rapidly and the nuts are coming down in showers. A large movement is anticipated to market."

CORN CROP DECLINES DURING PAST MONTH

Washington, November 9.—The corn crop this year amounts to 3,151,608,000 bushels, the department of agriculture announced today in its preliminary estimate.

The corn crop declined slightly during October, today's preliminary estimate being 11,365,000 bushels less than was forecast a month ago. The total crop this year still will be, however, one of the largest ever produced.

Corn production in southern states this year, according to the preliminary estimate of the department of agriculture, will be:

Virginia, 40,151,000 bushels.
North Carolina, 56,122,000.
Georgia, 87,512,000.
Tennessee, 95,512,000.
Alabama, 73,578,000.
Mississippi, 85,598,000.
Louisiana, 43,856,000.
Tobacco production, according to the preliminary estimates, will be:
Virginia, 90,860,000 pounds; North

Carolina, 221,620,000; South Carolina, 5,188,000; Florida, 3,360,000; Kentucky, 327,250,000; Tennessee, 60,800,000.

Other Crops.

Preliminary estimates of other crops were announced as follows:
Wheat, 14,894,000; potatoes, 356,076,000.
Sweet potatoes, 105,841,000.
Tobacco (pounds), 1,020,874,000.
Flaxseed, 9,390,000.
Pears, 9,780,000.

Apples, 162,290,000.
Sugar beets (tons), 7,480,000.
Kafirs, 125,724,000.
Peanuts, 23,664,000.
Wheat, per measured bushels of grains were announced as follows:
Wheat, 56.6 pounds.
Oats, 28.3 pounds.
Barley, 44.4.
Stocks of old corn on farms November 1 were estimated at 281,472,000 bushels, or 8.7 per cent of the 1920 crop.

the fact that there is a multitude of tacky people in Atlanta, and it is now an open secret that Mrs. Henry Heinz can be the tackiest lady in the city when she decides to dress the part; at any rate that is the judgment of Past Potentate John A. Hynde, Mrs. James S. Floyd and Noble James L. Mayson, who had the difficult task of picking out the eight tackiest people at the big party.

Mrs. Heinz's costume was a superb representation of a country girl "dressed up" for a party, with "pig tails" tied with blue ribbon hanging down her back, and the judges awarded her the first prize, which was a lady's handbag. Mrs. Hewitt won the second prize, a parasol; Miss Florence Harper received the third prize, hand-embroidered sofa pillows, and Mrs. Clarence Aldredge, the fourth prize, a five-pound box of candy.

Noble C. F. Gilman won the first prize for gentlemen, a pair of shoes; Noble T. H. Laird, second prize, a pair of shoes; and Noble W. B. Arnold, third prize, a Stetson hat, and W. S. Miller, fourth prize, a pair of bedroom slippers.

Approximately five thousand people attended the big party and fully one-half of them were in costume. The program opened with the Locksillet orchestra, whose music set all to tapping their feet, which did not cease until the degree team began a series of stunts, this being followed by the Oriental band, which entertained with its imitation of a pig fast under a fence and squealing for help.

The clatters, under direction of Frank Connelly, put on a laughable musical skit of a country singing school, which was attended by whole families, the entire membership being in costume representing everybody in the rural communities from grandfathers down to the negro nurse to care for a big, fat baby. The affair wound up in a game of African golf, which developed a row and some good basic.

Yanah's rubie band made the hit of the evening in its impersonation of the village silver miner and the particular stars being Handmaster Bill Stoddard, Cornet Virtuoso Cal Barber, and E. R. Donaldson.

The grand march began at 9:45, led by Potentate and Mrs. Heinz and during the march the judges made their selections of the best costumes, announcing the winners at 11 o'clock. Dancing, with a selected twelve-piece orchestra to furnish the music, then enlisted the attention of all, who voted Yanah's first tacky party a distinct success.

FROST EXPECTED

Forecaster Sees Cooler Weather, But No Rain.

No rainfall but cooler weather is the prediction for today by C. F. von Herrmann, official weather forecaster. It is expected by the forecaster that Atlanta will be visited by a frost Friday morning. The average date for a killing frost is November 6. The city received heavy showers of rainfall Tuesday night. Lighter showers fell Wednesday afternoon.

Atlanta Is Named As Headquarters Veterans' Bureau

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 9.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Announcement was made today at the veterans' bureau, formerly known as the war risk bureau, that an intensive decentralization program, calling for a distribution of the personnel of 14 districts throughout the country as a means of expediting claims of ex-service men handled by the department, will become effective at once. Atlanta will be headquarters for the fifth district.

At the bureau it was stated today that arrangements for handling all new cases has already been assigned to the various districts. It is the plan of the department, in time to transfer all claims of the ex-service men to the territories in which they reside, leaving only sufficient force at Washington to take care of the local district, and the central offices.

The decentralization program means that a large force from Washington will be transferred to Atlanta to handle the claims arising in the fifth district which includes the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia. The Atlanta offices are to be located at 423 Peachtree street.

While no explanation for the decentralization program was given, it is understood to have arisen in response to demands made by officials of the American Legion, who claim that it is unduly slow in the processing of claims by bringing the department in closer contact with those entitled to benefits under the veterans' bureau.

The bureau here has already started the program by refusing to take a number of claims. Examiners and others said to be greatly needed in the department at present, only recently a civil service examination having been held for those places.

Just when the entire program will be completed is not known, but the details are now being worked out. Final organization of the fourteen districts is expected at an early date.

PLANNED TO RUSH TARIFF HEARINGS

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 9.—(By The Constitution Leased Wire.)—It became known today that the hearings on the permanent tariff bill will now be rushed by the senate finance committee.

Representatives of the wool industry were heard again today in behalf of their plea for a straight 11-cent duty on scoured wool, and the elimination of the greased wool duty altogether.

Later representatives of various farm-producing industries will present their arguments in favor of schedules they have prepared.

Hearings will be reopened on some of the schedules already tentatively approved.

That the tariff bill will meet with considerable delay, in spite of efforts to rush it through, is indicated by the action of the senate yesterday afternoon in voting to extend the present emergency tariff bill until a permanent tariff shall have been enacted and placed in effect.

It is now also assured that railroad and shipping conditions will be aired by the senate in the closing days of the present extra session, it was indicated today by both republican and democratic senators.

A "dry" was begun today by Senator Cummins, republican, of Iowa, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, to force early action on the railroad debt funding bill, but his opponents announced their intention of debating it, and the railroad situation, at length before permitting a final vote.

Senator La Follette made it known he intended to fight against the administration proposal to authorize the president to convert the railroad indebtedness into bonds through the War Finance corporation or any other agency he may designate.

Republican leaders expressed the hope, however, that they would be able to succeed with their plan to compel the passage of the bill before the regular session, beginning December 5.

After the recess the senate is planning to take, after today's session until Monday, the battle over the railroad bill is expected to get under way.

In the meanwhile, an investigation of the American merchant marine and of the shipping board is threatened.

TREE TO BE PLANTED AS WAR MEMORIAL

A "memory tree" in honor of the men from the Forrest Avenue school who were killed during the world war will be planted with impressive ceremonies on the school grounds at noon Thursday. The students will participate as a body and the principal, Miss Kate King, has issued an invitation to mothers, fathers and friends of the students to be present. Principal talks for the occasion will be made by Captain Estes Doremus, commander of the James S. Moore Jr. post of the American Legion, and Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church. The program will be under the chairmanship of Mary L. Whitely, chairman of the grounds committee.

TROLLEY CHANGES MADE FOR PAVING

Beginning today, the city will pour concrete for the new pavement on Elizabeth street. This will necessitate the closing of a large portion of the street for ten days or two weeks. To meet this condition, it was announced Wednesday by the Georgia Railway and Power company, it will be necessary for passengers on all Emory university, Inman park and Clifton street cars to transfer on the corner of Hurt street and Edgewood avenue. Cars will be run from this corner to the terminus of Emory university, Inman park and Clifton, and from the same point to the other ends of the lines.

UNWRITTEN LAW BASE OF DEFENSE

firms in the effort to enroll their employees 100 per cent.

In addition to these three main departments, suburbs and country districts will be thoroughly canvassed.

Sunday Set Aside.

Letters have been sent from roll call headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building to all ministers in Atlanta, asking that they observe Red Cross Sunday, November 13, in accordance with the proclamation of President Harding. Many are planning to stress the work of the Red Cross from the pulpits.

The following women have been appointed to head the various church committees: Mrs. Frank Logan, Methodist; Mrs. Dan Harris, Episcopal; Mrs. T. J. Stephenson, Presbyterian; Mrs. George Forester and Mrs. E. D. Crawford, Catholic; and Mrs. J. E. Sommerfeld, Jewish.

Due to the efforts of more than 60 boy scouts, under the direction of Scout Commissioner A. A. Jamieson, Red Cross posters and placards have been placed in display windows throughout the city.

Thursday morning at 10 o'clock the men of the Red Cross executive committee will meet in the office of C. B. Bidwell to decide upon the representatives from downtown office buildings who will act as chairmen for their buildings. It is expected that this phase of the work will be systematized so that it can be completed in one-half day.

The territory to be covered in the roll call comprises all of Fulton county, which will be handled by the Atlanta executive committee; and DeKalb county, which will be under the jurisdiction of the Decatur branch of the Atlanta chapter, and Augustine Sams, roll call chairman, in charge.

90 PER CENT OF PURCHASES MADE BY LONG DISTANCE

By R. G. BETTY, Vice-President
Betty & Sons Lumber Company,
Montgomery, Ala.

We are indeed pleased to pay our tribute to the Long Distance Telephone. We are very frank to state that were it not for this instrument our business would be, we believe, immeasurably curtailed.

You will understand that we are strict wholesalers of Southern Yellow Pine, and practically every car shipped by us is purchased by us over the telephone from the States of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana. We are very well within the limits of the fact when we state that 90% of our lumber requirements are purchased by us over the telephone. We are inseparable companions, and are indeed pleased to wish for the telephone a broader field of usefulness.

"We Are Inseparable Companions of Long Distance Service"

Betty & Sons Lumber Company, of Montgomery, Ala., one of the largest and most progressive wholesale lumber concerns in the South, makes 90 per cent of its lumber purchases by Long Distance telephone over a field including Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana.

R. G. Betty, vice-president, states frankly that were it not for the efficient and extensive Long Distance service his business would be immeasurably curtailed.

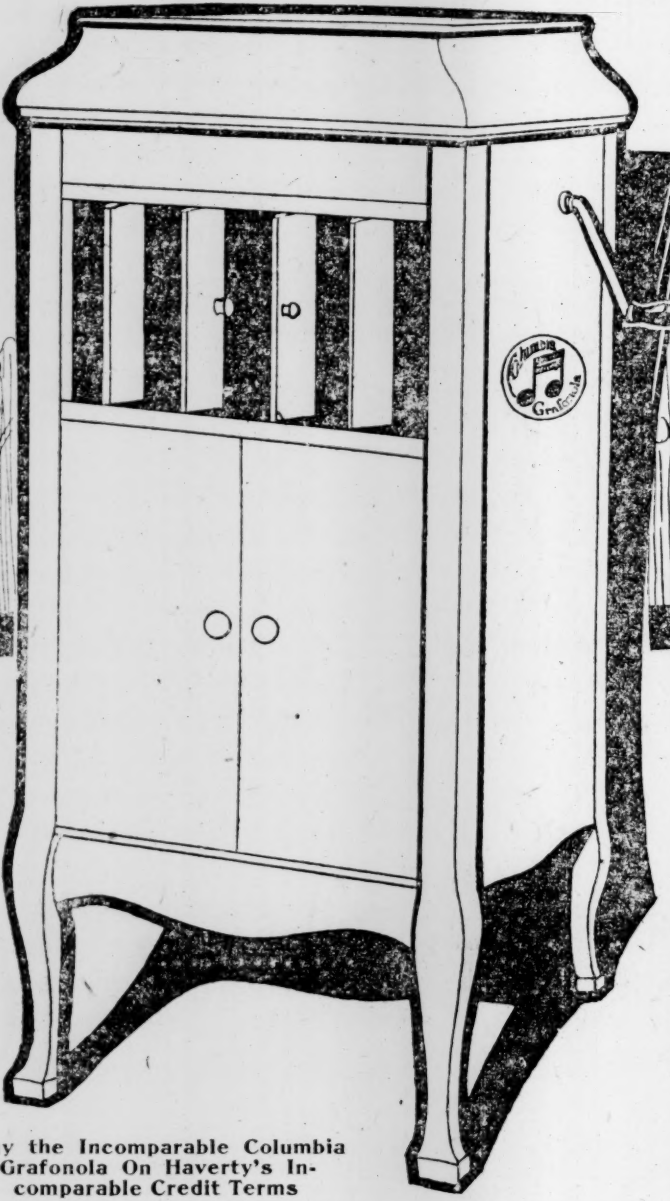

Naturally he is interested in our efforts to make the service more valuable to him and develop a broader field of usefulness for it.

Why not ask the Manager to send a representative to tell you how it can best serve you?

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH PLANS NEW PLANT

Social Service Work to Be Promoted on Larger Scale If Program Is Successful.

BY REV. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Augusta, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Atlanta people will be interested in the information given out here this afternoon to the north Georgia conference by Rev. A. D. Echols, pastor of St. Luke's church, Atlanta, and Dr. J. H. Eakes, presiding elder of the South Atlanta district, to the effect that St. Luke's church contemplates the erection of a $75,000 institutional plant in connection with, and under the jurisdiction of the church.

St. Luke's church is located near one of the industrial centers of Atlanta, where social work, similar to that now contemplated, has been going on for some time, but in a hampered manner. Already, many provisions have been made for the proposed work. A suitable lot of ground has been purchased at the corner of Pearl and Kirkwood streets, and architects are at work on plans for necessary buildings. It is proposed to build a church and parsonage, a living house for deaconesses to live in, and a community house.

Nature of Program.
Social service and uplift work will be the special phase of labor to be undertaken, all of which will be under the jurisdiction of St. Luke's church. Twenty-five thousand dollars have been appropriated for the project by the board of missions, and it is expected by the board, that if church extension will appropriate another $25,000, the churches of the city of Atlanta also will be asked to raise a third $25,000. Church leaders in Atlanta are deeply interested in the proposition, and the city women's board missions is supporting the plan.

Immediately after the adjournment of this session of the conference, the work will be pushed with vigor. As fast as weather will permit the buildings will be erected, and their completion is expected by the middle of the summer months. This work will prove the first large and systematic attempt on the part of Georgia Methodists to make a real investment and effort in social welfare and uplift work among industrial workers. It is confidently believed that it will prove not only successful, but a peace-making event that will lead to the erection of other similar plants in large industrial centers.

WILLIAMS IS NEW MAYOR OF MACON

Macon, Ga., November 9.—Luther Williams, veteran banker, was inaugurated mayor of Macon tonight. Of the twelve aldermen who took their seats in the city council, one is a woman, Mrs. Charles C. Harold, the first woman ever elected to office here.

NEGRO IS ARRESTED IN AMERICUS THEFTS

Americus, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Thieves who entered the suburban grocery of Bob Mathis in Brooklyn Heights here took practically everything inside the building, according to the reports made by him to the police yesterday.
The same thieves, it is believed, also broke into the home of Noah Addy, a negro, living near Mathis' store. A gold watch belonging to Addy was taken. An ax found in the yard of Addy, and which showed signs of having been used to cut metal, has been identified as the property of Andrew Johnson, another negro. Johnson is being held in police barracks.

CATTLE LOAN BANK FORMED IN FLORIDA

Bartow, Fla., November 9.—Organization of a cattle loan bank capitalized at $250,000, through which the Federal War Finance corporation will extend financial aid to stock raisers of Georgia and Florida, was announced here today.
The bank, to be known as the South Florida Cattle Loan company, will be chartered under the laws of Florida and will have headquarters in this city. F. L. Wilson, of Bartow, a Florida member of the Federal Agricultural Loan Agency of Atlanta, will be president. The bank is expected to begin operations within the next ten days.

HARDING ASKS NATION TO SUPPORT RED CROSS

Washington, November 9.—President Harding asked the American people tonight to give their liberal support to the annual campaign of the Red Cross for relief contributions, which begins on Armistice day and continues for two weeks.
The call of the Red Cross, the president said in a formal statement, should be regarded as "the call of country and humanity." He set aside next Sunday as "Red Cross Sunday," and requested that churches throughout the land devote that day to emphasizing the gospel of service.

BANDIT TRIAL JURY LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Memphis, Tenn., November 9.—The jury in the case of Thomas T. Harris, Edwin von Steinkirch and Orville and Jesse Jones, brothers, charged with murder in connection with the shooting to death of Polk A. Carraway, a policeman, in the holdup and attempted robbery of a Ford Motor company pay roll automobile on August 10, last, was locked up for the night at 11 o'clock tonight, after having been unable to reach a verdict after seven hours' deliberation.

GOODWYN'S BODY ARRIVES IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—The body of R. T. Goodwyn, Jr., who was instantly killed Thursday evening when his automobile plunged off a twenty-foot embankment leading from a bridge across the Alcovy river near Covington, was brought to Athens Wednesday noon, and was met at the station by the office force of the district state highway office, which acted as pallbearers. The funeral will be held Thursday morning, it is announced.

SUCCESSFUL ROBBERY WITNESSED BY MANY

Detroit, November 9.—A lone bandit leaped from an automobile in the midst of traffic at one of Detroit's busiest street corners today into a car being driven by James H. Brickley, cashier for a creamery company, compelled Brickley to surrender more than $4,000 and then jumped into his own machine and escaped. Scores of pedestrians and motorists witnessed the robbery, but were unable to block the bandit's escape.

DUBLIN MAKES CHANGE IN CAR PARKING LAWS

Dublin, November 9.—(Special.)—Radical changes in the automobile parking systems employed by drivers in Dublin were incorporated into an ordinance by city council in Monday night's session. Several collisions have occurred recently and bad smash-ups have been only narrowly averted on more than one occasion here.

Giddens Guilty.

Sylvestre, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Mace Giddens, negro, accused of the murder of Deputy Sheriff W. P. Giddens, December 28, last, was today found guilty the second time of murder without recommendation for mercy, which carries with it the death sentence. The jury was out from 9 o'clock last night until 11:30 this morning. Sentence will be imposed later, by Judge Eve.

U. S. GOOD ROADS BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, November 9.—The good roads bill carrying an appropriation of $75,000,000 for road improvements apportioned on maintenance provisions by the states was signed today by President Harding.

UNKNOWN SOLDIER RESTS IN CAPITOL

the full meed of honor was denied the dead on that account. From the highest officials of this democratic government, to the last soldier or marine or bluejacket, rain and cold meant nothing beside the desire to do honor to the dead.

The ceremonies were brief today. They began when the far boom of saluting cannon down the river signaled the coming of the great gray cruiser Olympia. The fog of rain hid her slow approach up the Potomac, but fort by fort, post by post, the guns took up the tale of honors for the dead as she passed.

Ship Reaches Dock.

Slowly the ship swung into her dock. Along her rails stood her crew in long lines of dark blue, rigid at attention and with a solemn expression uncommon to the young faces beneath the jaunty sailor hats. Astern, under the long, gray muzzle of a gun that once echoed its way into history more than twenty years ago in Manila bay, lay the flag-draped casket. Above a tented awning held of five dripping rain, the inner side of the canvas lined with great American flags to make a canopy for the sleeper below. At attention stood five sailors and marines as guards of honor for the dead at each corner and the head of his bier.

Below on the cobbled stretch of the old dock at Washington navy yard, a regiment of cavalry waited, sabers at "present," and the black draped gun carriages with its six black horses to carry the casket to the capitol. The troops formed in line facing toward the ship as she swung broadside to her place and the gangway was lifted to her quarterdeck. To their right a mounted band stilled their restless horses.

On the ship, the trim files of her marine guard stood at attention. Rear Admiral Lloyd H. Chandler, to whom had fallen the duty of escorting this dead private soldier over the Atlantic from France, was garbed in the full, formal naval dress as were officers of his staff.

With Full Honors.

Just as the ship's bell clanged out the quick double strokes of "eight bells," the sailor's form of 4 o'clock, and the hour set for arrival, the bugles rang again and the crew lined the rails far above the dock. The marines filed down the gangway to face the troops across the dock, the ship's band came down and formed beyond the marines. On deck at the gangway head, four sideboys took their place on each side facing toward each other and the boatswain waiting behind them to pipe a dead comrade over the side with the honors accorded only to full admirals of the fleet.

Cars bearing Secretaries Weeks and Denby, Assistant Secretary Wainwright, General Pershing, Major-General Harbord, Admiral Conitt and Major-General Lejeune, the marine commandant, and their aides rolled up. With Secretary Weeks on the right next to the gangway and Secretary Denby next, General Pershing and Admiral Conitt, these highest officers of the army and navy formed in line facing down the open space between the troops and the marines.

Slowly the flag-draped coffin was brought down between the line of troops and marines and under the eyes of the bluejackets standing rigidly at the ship's rails high above. As they came abreast of the ship's band, the dirge was stilled, a marine bugler sounded four flourishes of salute to a general officer. Then the stirring, lifting strains of the Star Spangled Banner rang out to the gray sky, the nation's own hymn of freedom.

Crowds Line Streets.

Again the slow march to the waiting gun carriage was taken up; again the wall of the funeral march, cut through with the crash of the guns above. The caisson waited in a space between the second third squadron, of the full strength of the third cavalry from Fort Myer, and beside it stood eight bodybearers of the army headed by Sergeant Woodfill, hero of heroes among Americans who fought in France.

Through the gateway the cortege clattered to find great crowds lining the way under the dull light of a fading autumn day. It moved quickly on through the streets, ringing to the melody of the band and the drumming of the horses' shoes on the wet pavement. On it went, to swing at last into the great plaza before the capitol, and there the troops again drew up in a line, facing the massive building, with sabers at "present," as the casket was lifted down and carried up the wide stairway to be placed on the catafalque in the dim rotunda. The two secretaries, bareheaded, followed and behind them, the officers and others

There were few in the great hall. The only lights were those high among the pillars above the sculptured walls, and the last fading gleams of day through the high windows. The waiting guard, which would stand through the long night about the bier, stood at present arms as the casket was carried in and set in place on the high, black-draped structure on which the body of McKinley was last to repose in state.

President Arrives.

There was a pause then until the ring of a command rang out on the plaza, the flurry of drawn steel as the sabers of the cavalry leaped out again to present arms, announcing that President and Mrs. Harding had arrived, the last rites of the day were at hand. As the president and Mrs. Harding came into the dim chamber, brilliant lights leaped up to make possible a picture of the scene for all America to see. The cameras clicked. There was no other sound. About the bier the guard stood with rifles butts grounded. Mrs. Harding stepped forward, a white ribbon in her hand. She laid it across the catafalque, she laid it across the casket, a slash of white across the rain-soaked flag, with its withered cluster of French flowers. As Mrs. Harding stepped down, the president took her place, and to the ribbon pinned a silver shield of the United States, set with forty-eight golden stars. It is symbolic of the heart of the nation that goes with this soldier to his tomb.

Wreaths of Flowers.

Then a great wreath of crimson roses was handed to Mr. Harding and he laid it softly on the casket near the head and gave place to Vice President Coolidge and Speaker Gillett, who moved forward together to lay the tribute of congress, a wreath of pink roses and snapdragons, in place. Chief Justice Taft moved forward from the opposite side, bearing the floral tribute of the supreme court, a wreath of chrysanthemums and carnations. Secretary Weeks laid the army's token of remembrance, a wreath of white roses, against the casket at the head, and Secretary Denby placed the navy's offering, chrysanthemums and roses, set on an ensel, at the foot of the bier. Over and to one side, against the wall, were placed the great masses of pink blossoms that were warned to life by the sun of France to be carried all the long way on the Olympia to this unknown, gallant comrade's coffin.

Then General Pershing stepped forward to place his own tribute and that of the American expeditionary forces on this unknown, gallant comrade's coffin. It was a wreath of giant pink chrysanthemums, and as he placed it, the officer paused a moment then stepped back a pace or two and drawing his figure to its full height, lifted his hand to capbrim in rigid salute to the dead.

Alone With Guard.

The only spectators of these simple rites were the few clustered in the doorways of the great chamber. The bright lights blazed for a few moments as the president and Mrs. Harding went out to receive again the formal honors from the troops waiting below. Then the unknown was left alone with his motionless guard of honor that was changed at frequent intervals through the night, alone with his head eastward toward the distant France. On either side of the doorway through which he might have gazed stand the statues of Lincoln and Grant as though they also kept vigil.

Lights were switched off and the great building was wrapped in the gloom of night, the dim twilight of the few scattered hidden electric lights the shadows fall over the bier, and fill the vast cavern of the dome above with a mystery and a peace that will not be broke until daylight streams again through those high windows.

Wilson to Ride.

Former President Wilson probably will ride in a horse-drawn carriage among the mourners, including President Harding, who will follow the coffin of America's unknown soldier on Friday when it is borne from the capitol on its way to Arlington.

The order of the funeral parade made public today at the war department showed the space set aside for Mr. Wilson and that he intend to use a carriage.

Whether the former president plan to go all the way to Arlington or whether he will turn aside from the procession with members of President Harding's party was not known today. Neither was it known whether he would attend the ceremonies in the Arlington amphitheater even though he made the trip to the Nations cemetery. A box within the amphitheater is being held by the war department on the possibility that Mr. Wilson may desire to be present. It is the only box placed at the disposal of any individual.

Order of Parade.

President Harding and General Pershing will immediately follow the casket, walking abreast and with their aides in single file on either side.

Vice President Coolidge will follow the president at a distance of ten yards and Admiral Conitt, chief of naval operations, will walk at a similar distance behind General Pershing. Their aides will walk the flanks while immediately behind will come Admiral Jones, commanding the Atlantic fleet, and Chief Justice Taft of the supreme court, walking abreast.

Behind these two will be former President Wilson's carriage, next Lieutenant General Miles and Young, walking in line with the members of the supreme court, then the cabinet walking five abreast in two ranks and with General Bliss on one side of the first rank and Admiral Williams on the other. Then will follow the governors of the various states, the president pro tempore of the senate, Major General Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, and after them the senate members in column, eight abreast, followed by the members of the house in similar formation.

Behind these government officials in the mourning party will come the various war veterans' organizations headed by the men who hold the congressional medal of honor and followed by representatives of patriotic societies and others who will conclude the parade.

TWO MEN WOUNDED IN ROADSIDE FIGHT

Dr. B. P. Holmes Injured
Seriously and His Son Is Expected to Die—Woman in Case.

Vidalia, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—In a roadside altercation a few miles here, Dr. B. P. Holmes this morning was seriously injured and his son, Oris Holmes, received gunshot wounds in the side which will prove fatal, according to physicians who were immediately summoned from Vidalia to attend the wounded.

Dr. Holmes was in a semi-conscious condition when assistance arrived, but Young Holmes had a clear mind and made a statement concerning the fight. His story is that William Phillips injured Dr. Holmes by hitting him with the butt of a pistol and that a relative of Phillips, Fulton Williamson, fired the shot that is expected to prove fatal to young Holmes.

He stated that the Phillips are neighbors of the Holmes and that Mrs. William Phillips left the home of her husband yesterday and went to the Holmes residence to spend the night and asked to be brought to the home of a relative, Angus Todd, when Mr. Holmes came to Vidalia this morning.

Halted in Road.
This arrangement was made and on the way to town, about four miles out, near the farm of Clem Phillips, the Holmes car was met by the Phillips car, crosswise in the road.

Phillips ordered Dr. Holmes out of the car, said Young Holmes, and began to beat him with the pistol, and Williamson got in the Holmes car. Young Holmes picked up a crank, with which to defend his father, whereupon Williamson used a shotgun at very close range, the charge going into the side of Holmes.

The wound is just under the heart on the left side, and it is said by physicians that the entire charge is still in Holmes' body, probably lodged under the left kidney in his back.

Other Occupants.
The Phillips car, according to Holmes' statement, had four or five passengers, but he did not state who the other members of the party were with exception of Phillips and Williamson.

Officers left immediately for the scene of the tragedy, but have as yet made no arrests. Dr. Holmes is a prominent farmer of this section and has a large family of boys. Oris Holmes is 16 years old, and worked on his father's farm. He is at present in care of the Vidalia hospital. The Phillips and Williamson are both of a large family connection in this and in adjoining counties.

IMPROVED AIRBRAKE SHOWN AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—For the purpose of demonstrating the operation of new airbrake equipment to the employees of the Atlantic Coast line road, E. Z. Mann, airbrake instructor, will give demonstrations of the new appliance to parties interested every day this week.

ULSTER CABINET SUPPORTS CRAIG

London, November 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Ulster cabinet representatives have unanimously approved today "the firm attitude" which Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, has maintained in the interest of Ulster in his conferences with Prime Minister Lloyd-George over the question of an Irish settlement.

This decision was reached after a prolonged meeting between the Ulster premier and the members of the cabinet he had summoned to London. At this meeting Sir James explained the situation and the Irish negotiations so far as he had been made aware of it in his recent interviews with Mr. Lloyd-George, and outlined the course he had pursued in the circumstances.

No definite decision will be taken by the Ulster representatives until they are in possession of the detailed written statement of the negotiations between Mr. Lloyd-George and the Sinn Fein delegates which the British premier has promised them, but which he telephoned he was too busy to prepare today.

On receiving this word at their meeting the Ulster cabinet members adjourned until 11 o'clock Thursday morning, when Mr. Lloyd-George hopes to have the statement ready.

One of those present at the session was asked what the petition was at present. In reply he pointed to the log outside.

"Like that," he said.

AKERMAN IS NAMED TO BE U. S. MARSHAL

Washington, November 9.—Walter Akerman was nominated today by President Harding to be United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia.

Well-Known Georgian.
Mr. Akerman is one of the best known and most prominent of Georgia republicans, and approval of his appointment was expressed on all sides among Atlanta republicans Wednesday.

He is the son of the late Amos T. Akerman, who was attorney-general in Grant's cabinet, is a graduate of Princeton and for 25 years was head of the republican organization in the Seventh Georgia district, making two races for congressman from the district.

SHOTGUN WOUND BY COUSIN PROVES FATAL TO MISS LEE

Waycross, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Miss Estie Lee died at a local hospital this morning as the result of accidental gunshot wounds received late Saturday afternoon. The young woman went to a field where her two cousins were hunting to remind them of a cane-grinding to be given Saturday night.

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS FORMED IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—A barbecue will be given by the Men's Bible classes of the First Methodist and First Baptist churches at the country farm as a feature of Armistice day here. The barbecue will be followed by a football game between the teams of the local Y. M. C. A. and Ashburn Y. M. C. A. teams. These eleven met on the local grounds last Saturday and Waycross barely managed to nose out a victory. The game Friday is expected to be even more interesting.

COVINGTON TO SPEAK AT DUBLIN BANQUET

Dublin, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Plans for the annual chamber of commerce dinner on the evening of December 16 are fast being formulated and the 1921 affair has every indication of eclipsing even the most successful similar undertaking in past years.

Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, has been secured as the principal speaker for this particular occasion and is known throughout the state as a forceful and entertaining speaker.

Rummage Sale.
The Women's Missionary and Benevolent society of the Second Baptist church will hold a rummage sale Friday and Saturday at 443 Edgewood avenue. All packages of rummage are to be sent to that address in time for the sale.

POLICE POWERS FOR TROLLEY MEN GIVEN APPROVAL

Indorsement of the plan to make inspectors of the Georgia Railway and Power company policemen to aid in the traffic situation was voiced Wednesday by George Deibert, secretary of the citizens' safety commission.

"It will mean that eighteen traffic policemen will be added to the city's force," he said, "without the expenditure of a penny. We highly approve of the plan."

Mr. Deibert added that published statements that it is planned to convert the commission into a local branch of the national safety council were in error. He explained that a large sum would be necessary to make this move, and said no plans were being contemplated in this direction.

FOOD PRICES DROP IN MONTH PERIOD

Washington, November 9.—Retail food prices decreased between September 15 and October 15 in nine of the eleven principal cities from which reports were received, the department of labor announced today. In Milwaukee, there was a decrease of 3 per cent; in Chicago, Detroit and Indianapolis, a decrease of 2 per cent; in Peoria and St. Louis a decrease of 1 per cent; in Bridgeport and Minneapolis, a decrease of four-tenths of 1 per cent; in Newark, N. J., a decrease of one-tenth of 1 per cent. In Columbus there was no change during the month, and in Mobile, Ala., there was an increase of 1 per cent.

For the year period, October 15, 1920, to October 15, 1921, there was a decrease of 20 per cent in Mobile, 25 per cent in Detroit, 24 per cent in Minneapolis and St. Louis; 23 per cent in Chicago, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Peoria; 22 per cent in Bridgeport and Newark, and 21 per cent in Columbus.

INDUSTRY IS URGED BY NEGRO LEADERS

That the greatest asset of the negro race is the honest and efficient laborer and a lover of honest toil was declared in an expression of opinion of negro leaders submitted to the Atlanta conference, A. M. E. church, in Decatur, and made public Wednesday. The report, submitted by the "committee on state of the country" was signed by Richard L. Stinson, chairman, J. T. Addie, J. W. Lancaster, R. H. Ward and J. H. McFarlin.

The report urges that the negroes be "a people that will be busy six days a week, and seven, if necessary, and will not be constantly entangled with others."

"We are not all we should be," the report continues. "We are not alive to the highest and best interests in associating ourselves in such manner as to make the best of our own opportunities, and I do not mean by this that there are not thousands of us who are trying to live up to our opportunities. But we do say that there are too many of us who are living in the thoughtless past."

HOW TO GET RID OF COLDS AND CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive
Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There must be readers suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, a respected physician, and for years a specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by man, woman and child. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into all the air passages. It contains no cubes, tobacco or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, asthma, catarrhal headache and ear troubles that may be distressing. You will breathe better and feel better after using it. Satisfactory results guaranteed. Any well stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy.

A trial package, containing eight cigarettes, will be mailed to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 40 DE. Atlanta, Ga., to prove their beneficial and pleasant effect.—(adv.)

Shipping the Millionth New Improved Gillette

Patented January 13th 1920

ON October 29, 1921, a shipment containing the millionth New Improved Gillette left the Gillette Factory.

When men put themselves on record a million strong in seven months—

For a shaving instrument that cannot fully be described in print—

That cannot be adequately demonstrated except on one's own personal face—

What is it then that makes people so spontaneously partisan toward the New Improved Gillette?

Briefly this—

Sales figures show that 57,263 men bought the New Improved Gillette the first day, on faith in the Gillette word and record of achievement.

Within 24 hours, these men had demonstrated to themselves beyond question the 75% improvement in shaving quality brought by the New Improved Gillette.

The news spread from man to man.

Thousands more bought—tried—and told about the New Improved Gillette.

500,000 produced by August 1st—and still orders so outran production that a night shift became necessary in the Gillette Factories.

The New Improved Gillette

But magnitude does not say everything.

No one can forget the peculiar tribute expressed in the way so many loyal followers of the old-type Gillette affectionately laid it aside for the New.

Because they believed Gillette when Gillette said that the New Improved instrument is better.

Important about the New Improved Gillette—A Word about the Blades

Most men prefer to screw the razor up tight to get the most satisfactory shave.

Gillette deems it proper to ask the public to use Gillette Blades only in genuine Gillette Razors.

The Gillette Blade and Gillette Razor are developed to work together. No Gillette Blade can deliver its full shaving quality unless used in a genuine Gillette Razor—built by Gillette, in the Gillette way and up to Gillette standards.

WOMEN AND UNIVERSITY.
The response of Atlanta women to the appeal of the University of Georgia alumni for contributions to the war memorial fund has not yet measured up to expectations.

Of the total amount expected from the women, the allotment apportioned to the Atlanta section of the women's division was fixed at $50,000.

The officials of the university, who will administer the $1,000,000 fund to be raised, have agreed that the memorial hall to be erected on the university campus with a part of the money anticipated from the present drive shall be built and used as a dormitory for women students.

The university was put upon a co-educational basis in 1918, and at the present time contains more than sixty women students. Adequate provision has not yet been made for the housing of women students, who are occupying as a dormitory a building on the State College of Agriculture campus.

The officials have agreed that upon the walls of this women's building is to be erected a bronze tablet bearing the name of every Georgia boy—regardless of whether or not he was ever connected in any way with the university, or of the part of the state in which he lived—who died in the service of his country during the war.

Thus is the building to be a war memorial hall in the true sense of the term—in a sense a "Hall of the Immortals" of Georgia—in which the names of Georgia's world war heroes who paid the supreme sacrifice will be preserved indelibly as an inspiration to future generations.

Because of the significance of the campaign to the women—to the mothers of Georgia's heroic dead, as well as to the mothers of women students and prospective students of the university—this recognition ought to exert an impelling influence upon the feminine heart and mind of this state and community.

Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, who is in charge of the women's campaign in Atlanta, with headquarters in room 1415 Candler building, has evolved a plan to enroll 2,000 women, each pledged to contribute to the fund $5 a year for five years. By that means the total of the Atlanta women's pro rata would be realized within the period prescribed for the collection of subscriptions.

This certainly would work no hardship upon any woman subscriber, and yet it would give each an opportunity to have a hand in a great constructive work in behalf of the members of her sex of this and future generations, and for the perpetuation of memories of the gallant sons of Georgia who participated and died in the greatest war of all time.

The women of Georgia fought valiantly to have the university put upon the co-educational basis; and during the session of the general assembly of 1918 the late Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, then the revered president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, worked zealously to that end.

APPROVING THE PRESIDENT.
The reaction of sentiment regarding the speech recently delivered by President Harding at Birmingham, the change from criticism to approval, has been little short of remarkable.

This change has been due unquestionably to the fact that the first judgment of the public was rendered largely upon the strength of misleading headlines rather than upon reading of the text of the address.

The general comment of the southern press has been overwhelmingly in approval of the president's position in declaring that social equality is impossible, that it is neither expedient nor desirable, and that the sooner that fact is recognized the more promptly can a reasonable and permanent solution of the race problem be reached.

Illustrative of this trend of public sentiment, we reproduce elsewhere upon this page a Washington special to The Baltimore Sun, in which is quoted a statement from Robert Crain, the most extensive landowner in Maryland, a prominent citizen, and a leader in democratic councils in Maryland.

This statement by Mr. Crain, similar statements that have been made by other leading citizens of the south, and the comments of southern newspapers, all go to show that The Constitution's analysis of the Birmingham speech is being universally approved.

ONE TOO MANY.

That the unending controversy between the railroad corporations and their operatives is due very largely to lack of co-ordination in the fixing of rates, from which the corner derive their income, and in the fixing of wages paid the latter, there can be no doubt.

Under the existing law, the fixing of rates and wages and working conditions is done by the federal government, and the two phases of operation are under the jurisdiction of two separate and distinct instrumentalities of the government.

Rate-regulation is in the hands of the interstate commerce commission, while the regulation of wages and working conditions is left to the railroad labor board. Neither of these two has official relationship with the other.

The railroad labor board says what the railroads must pay their labor.

The interstate commerce commission, without consulting with the railroad labor board, fixes the transportation rates upon which the carriers must depend for revenue to meet pay-rolls.

This is an utterly unscientific system; and it is impossible for it to operate without friction.

The adjustment both of railroad rates and of railroad wage scales should be placed in the hands of the same body.

The responsibility for the whole business should rest with the interstate commerce commission, and the labor board, as a separate entity ought to be done away with.

As matters stand, neither the railroads, the workers nor the public can be satisfied.

WAY THE WORLD MOVES.

If more people would regard autumn as the brisk, business time of the year, there wouldn't be so many reflections, in verse and prose, on "melancholy days."

There are very few melancholy days with the man who is gathering a bountiful, diversified crop. He lives in the splendidly productive Present, and doesn't let whatever dreams he may have of the Past interfere with the sunshine-haymaking!

But the wistful days will come, and this—from The Lamar (Mo.) Democrat—is a fair sample of their wistfulness—

"The trees you used to climb when you were a boy no longer stand. They have been felled by the ax, and split up into posts or sawed into lumber. The barn loft you learned to play seven up in no longer shelters 'truant' hens and neighbor boys. The old barn has long since fallen down. The chains are the old swimmin' hole has filled up and there isn't enough water in it to swim a frog any more. The wild strawberry patch is gone. They've been trying to raise corn where it was for twenty-odd years. The tall old hedge where the boys used to play hide and seek, is no longer there. It was pulled up by the roots a decade ago. The old porch where you first got the nerve to kiss your best girl no longer shelters the old staid farm house. It was torn away and they're using the old dwelling for a granary. Not only is the past a memory, but its physical settings often live only in the mind's great gallery of yesterdays after you have grown up and gone."

That's the pretty—the dreamy and somewhat sad picture painted by an editor who visited the old home-town after long years.

And it's all right to paint such pictures; but, at the same time, to take into consideration the fact that the old world's a fine moving proposition, and that it is made new every day!

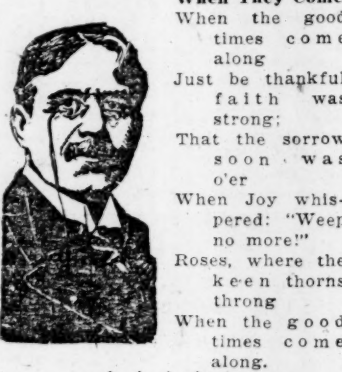

The thing is to keep moving with it, not forgetting that the creek where the old swimming hole used to be may now be helping to impel a power plant by which a little city has light and transportation; and that there is now a busy factory, giving needful employment to many, on the some-time site of the old barn.

You won't catch very many thirsty people getting sick until they are certain that there's the right kick in the medicinal beer.

The handit epidemic is still assisting in holding up the country.

Robert Crain Puts "O. K." On Birmingham Address

(From The Baltimore Sun.)

Washington, October 28.—President Harding's Birmingham speech on the political future of the negro race in America was given the name of "Robert Crain's address" today by Robert Crain, prominent Maryland and Washington lawyer and one of the foremost democratic factors in the state.

Incidentally, Mr. Crain is the largest landowner in Maryland, his Charles county estate embracing more than 15,000 acres. He is one of the largest employers of negro labor in the state, but neither his personal relationship to the negro nor his prominence as a democrat has prevented him from approving the "O. K." utterances in behalf of political equality for the negro.

Mr. Crain in his statement said: "While I am opposed to the making of Mr. Harding's political policy, I strongly endorse his speech delivered in Birmingham."

"President Harding, be it remembered, made it perfectly plain that the negro should never think of social equality. I have watched the negro learn to live with the negro and his rights are protected alike by all political parties."

"In one word, the rest of the president's speech means that the negro should be treated as a human being in the making of laws and in constraining them. For more than forty years I have watched the negro learn the lesson that the republican party has his savior. There was no truth in this lesson, but I have wished to live to see the negro learn that his rights are protected alike by all political parties."

The Unknown Soldier.

Uncovered now we honor him. Who lost both life and name. And tho he is unknown to fame, He's not unknown to mine.

Pre-eminent, apart, alone, Unnamed among the brave—Both heart and soul go out to him, Within a nameless grave.

The awful carnage now is over. Stilled is the battle's sound. He's paid a double price who fills, An unknown soldier's mound.

For there he lies for us unknown. We never can speak his name. Yet angels chant a requiem, Above his lonely grave.

A grateful nation mourns his loss. In lands both far and near. But it can only place a wreath Above his unknown bier.

His name can never be engraved On monument and stone. But God who knows will honor him Before His judgment throne.

Seen and Heard in Washington

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington, November 9.—(Special.)—Most of the delegations to the international conference on the limitation of armament and the problem of the Far East have arrived.

It is a colorful thing. Leading men and women from every quarter of the globe are here, blending the customs and the habits of every civilized nationality into one great melting pot of world diplomacy.

Washington city has within a week become the most cosmopolitan city on the face of the earth—the Capitol of the Universe.

The people of Washington have never witnessed such scenes before. They throng the streets to see the foreign delegations, as they arrive, escorted to their hotels, or newly acquired American capitols.

These are pompous events. The ceremony is elaborate and "fanciful," if that word will pass.

Usually the secretary of state heads a group of high government officials to meet these incoming delegations.

The army and navy are represented by the high-ups in uniforms. The military bands are on hand.

When the special train carrying such and such a foreign assemblage arrives in the Union depot the bands strike up the national airs of the two nations, America's first and then that of the nation represented by the arriving dignitaries.

The American officials appear in tall hats and long coats, and while the band plays the national anthem of the nation represented by the arrivals, the visiting dignitaries "step ashore;" the American dignitaries doff their hats; the uniformed officials stand at attention; Secretary Hughes and the chairman of the visiting delegation clasp hands—

And then the whole bunch hustle up into a train of automobiles escorted by double lines of cavalry. The dash up Pennsylvania avenue then takes on the appearance of one section of an inaugural parade.

Some class!

The most striking thing about the mingling street groups, as the visitors, and especially the humbler attaches, begin to find their "land legs," is the readiness with which the easterners adopt the costumes and habits and even mannerisms of the westerners; while the southerners, the Latins, refuse to assimilate the customs of the north.

The Chinese man and woman appear in the hotels, cafes, theaters—everywhere—conventionally dressed after the manner of the well-dressed American.

They wear the same cut of clothes, shoes, hats, gloves and carry the same cases and smoke American-made cigarettes and Tampa cigars.

The women boot around in high heel shoes, short dresses, silk stockings, and the same kind of head stuff that American women wear—

But the South and Central Americans and the Latins of all nationalities just content themselves with the styles of Madrid, and a barbaric display of Spanish jewels and head-gear.

Great mixture!

The heads of the Japanese delegation are at the Shoreham hotel. The high attaches are at the Powhatan. The secretaries, etc., are in a palatial residence near the embassy, taken over by the Japanese government.

The British government has three floors in the Lafayette hotel, another three in the Ritz-Carlton, and two floors in the Franklin Square hotel. Of course, Lloyd-George has a palatial residence all of his own when he arrives, and Prime Minister Balfour has a floor or two in a palatial apartment just across from the British embassy.

The Chinese contingent just took over the Cairo hotel bodily. The French delegation has taken an entire floor at the Willard hotel, and the Belgians have taken another floor at the same hotel.

The Italians have taken a floor at the Washington hotel. The Netherlands are at the Powhatan. Portugal's delegation and an overflow from all of them will be at the Raleigh.

And, my, my, what a big social event it is going to be.

Reach Million-Dollar Mark By Nov. 11, Urges Chancellor

Editor Constitution: Georgia is the first southern state to inaugurate a great memorial to her sons who died in the world war and one of the first states in the Union.

On the universal anniversary of the armistice it should show the million-dollar fund completed. It is short only $130,000.

Thousands of friends of the university are working earnestly in the effort to awaken others than the alumni to the privilege of showing through gifts their personal appreciation of the sacrifices made by Georgia boys by building a living memorial for Georgia's youth at the university.

Let all Georgians, who can answer this call, do so at once.

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The Hygienic Purpose of Cooking. The plasmodium which causes malaria enters the blood of the victim in but one way, through the bite of the breed of mosquito called Anopheles.

The virus or germ which causes yellow fever enters the victim's blood through the bite of another breed of mosquito called Stogomyia. The plague is conveyed to man by the bite of a flea which infests the fur of rats and squirrels. Mountain fever and Texas fever are conveyed to man by the bite of the African sleep.

The sickness not the so-called sleeping sickness which physicians know as encephalitis lethargica in America and Canada, is conveyed to man by the bite of the tse-tse fly.

Just as trifling wounds inflicted upon the skin by these parasites open a portal for infection by bacteria, may not trifling wounds inflicted upon the skin by the bite of the African sleep be responsible for other infections? Metchnikoff held that appendicitis was often caused by bacterial infection in the appendix which was the result of the mucus membrane in or near the appendix by the threadworm or pinworm.

A great many cases of appendicitis have been reported in which the surgeon found at operation masses of these parasites within the inflamed organ. Unquestionably many persons harbor various parasites such as tapeworms, round worms or lumbricoides, tapeworms, yet suffer no disturbance of health therefrom. Likewise many persons bitten by mosquitoes, the ticks of the species known to carry the diseases mentioned, do not become infected, simply because the insect has not happened to bite a person who was ill of disease.

So, the injury of the mucus membrane lining the alimentary tract by parasites, may give rise to no noticeable infection.

The invisible microscopic eggs of the intestinal parasites are ingested in drinking water, in eating raw foods, or sometimes they are conveyed directly into the mouth upon unclean fingers, especially in children. The manner in which drinking water or garden vegetables or fruits become contaminated is through pollution from human sewage or, in some instances, the droppings from animals, which happen to be intermediate hosts of parasites of man. This is quite a different matter from the contamination of food by persons who are "carriers" of such a disease as typhoid, that is, cooks or other food handlers who at some time have had typhoid fever and for months or years afterward eliminate typhoid bacilli, and are capable of infecting those who eat the food handled.

Prof. Metchnikoff advocated and personally practiced the boiling of all drinking water as a precaution against infection with parasites of infection with disease germs. He served that disease popular notions to the contrary, it was impossible to distinguish the boiled from the un-boiled water by taste. He advocated and practiced the boiling of all milk for five minutes, for the same reason.

He recommended the eating of raw vegetables in salads, as a too ready means of transmission of parasitic ova or eggs and also of disease germs. He advised washing such vegetables in cold water, and then boiling them for five minutes, so that they must be at least scalded with boiling water, or better still, boiled at the end.

The same rule applies to all fruits, save those like bananas which come in an aseptic or germ-proof skin.

Educators to Hold Meet in Nashville On November 11-12

Announcement of the fourth annual meeting of the Southern Association of Teacher Training Institutions, to be held at the George Peabody College for Teachers, in Nashville, Tennessee, November 11 and 12, was received Wednesday in Atlanta.

Reverend H. H. Hoke, dean of the institution, will be in charge of the meeting. He will be assisted by R. E. Tidwell, assistant state superintendent of schools in Alabama; Dr. P. P. Chaston, provost of the University of Alabama; Dr. J. A. Thackston, chairman of the board of directors, school of education, University of Tennessee; and a number of other prominent educators.

Standardization of educational terminology and courses will be discussed by H. H. Hoke, dean of the institution, and Mary college. H. F. Estill, president of Sam Houston Normal college, Texas, will discuss standards for faculty appointments in Texas normal colleges.

The report of the committee to investigate and offer recommendations in connection with the practice of southern institutions of higher learning in the matter of records, will constitute an interesting feature of the meeting. This report will be read November 11 by Miss Adela Alexander, registrar of the Peabody College for Teachers.

OLDER BOYS' MEET REGISTRATION ENDS

The registration for the Y. M. C. A. older boys' conference closed Wednesday with Atlanta well represented by more than forty representatives. The conference, which is being held at the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the Y. M. C. A. in most instances, each organization sends an older delegate with the boys from their respective organizations.

The Atlanta delegation will be entertained in Macon homes. The boys' leaders will not interfere with the school work of the boys, but will address them on the Y. M. C. A. boys' leaders at other prominent men of the state and country will be present at the older boys' conference. W. W. Orr, of Atlanta, is one of the leaders of the movement. M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, will be one of the speakers. Arthur N. Cotton, a Y. M. C. A. expert on boys' work, will be one of the principal leaders.

The main party will leave over the Central of Georgia railroad at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning. Some will go by auto, others on a later train.

ATKINSON TO TALK BEFORE REALTORS

H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of the Georgia Railway and Power company, will address the regular semi-monthly luncheon of the Atlanta Real Estate Board Thursday.

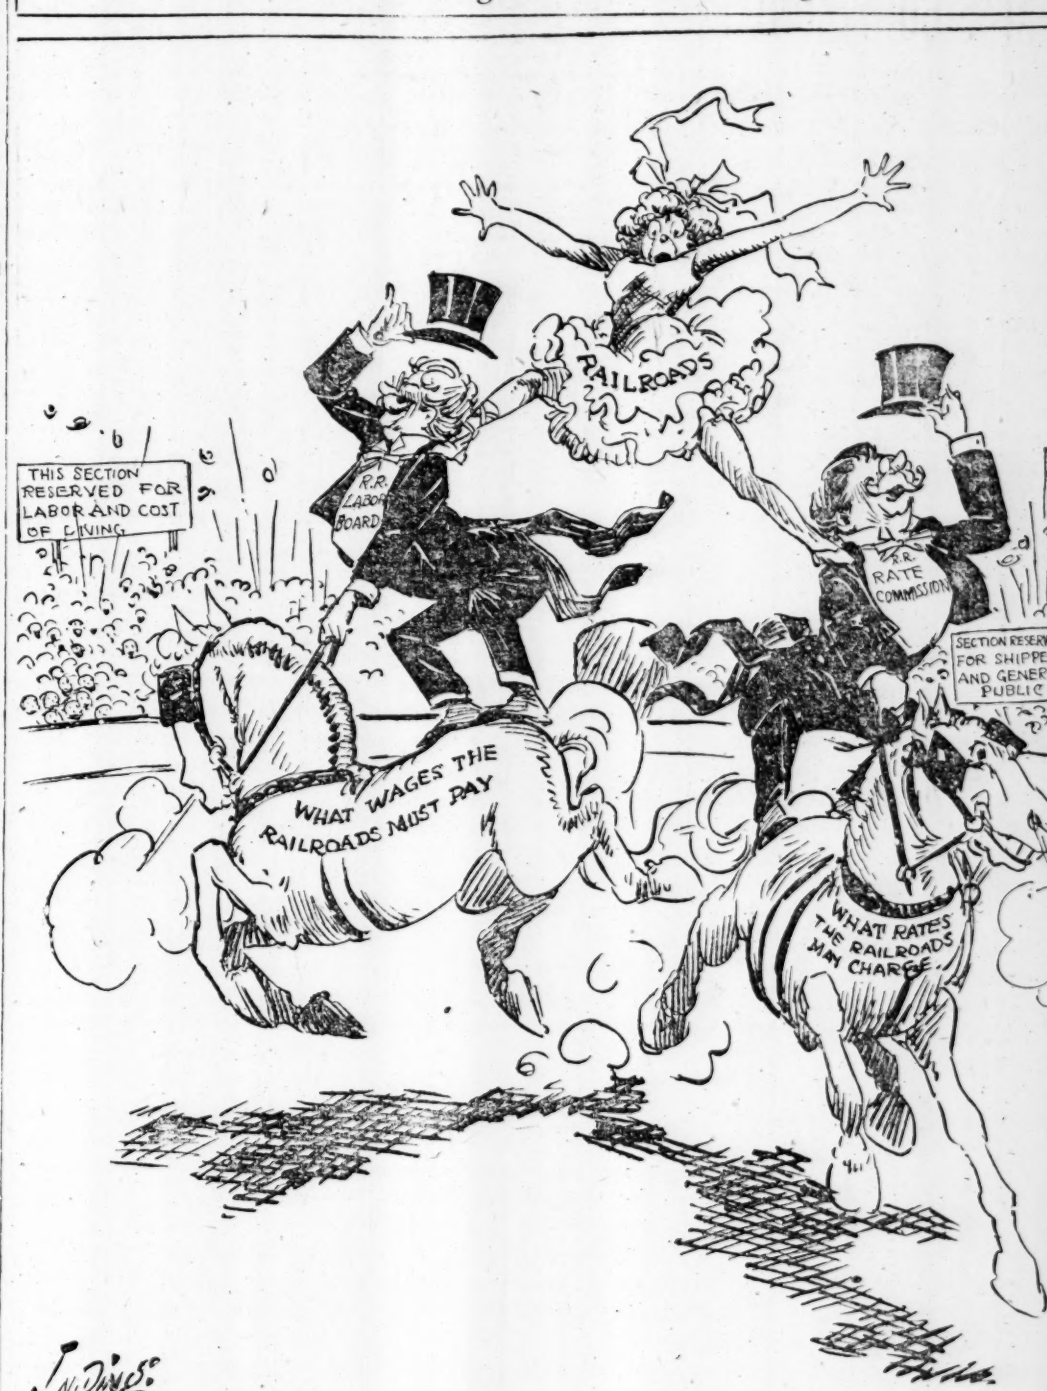

He will discuss the cost of electric power to local manufacturers. The luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock, at the Peacock cafe.

BUICK CLOSED CARS TO BE EXHIBITED

A Buick closed car show will be held between 10 o'clock in the morning and 10 o'clock at night in the showroom of the John M. Smith company, 190-194 West Peachtree street, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It was announced Wednesday.

The exhibit will be given under the aegis of the John M. Smith company, Buick branch, and the Atlanta branch of the Buick Motor company.

DRY SEARCH WARRANT RULE IS TIGHTENED

Making it more difficult for federal prohibition agents to secure search warrants hereafter, a ruling has been issued that enforcement officers must submit their evidence against the police under suspicion to a commissioner who will decide whether a warrant should be issued.

At a conference of local federal officers Wednesday, at which District Attorney Hooper Alexander explained a recent ruling of U. S. Attorney-General Daugherty on search warrants, members of the prohibition department said that henceforth an officer must swear that to his knowledge there is in a certain place before a warrant can be obtained.

"The order means that the officer swearing out the warrant must make out a moral case before the commissioner," the district attorney explained.

"The officer must recite the evidence in support of his charge and the commissioner must be at least partly convinced of the accused person's guilt."

Among those who conferred on the new ruling Wednesday, besides the district attorney, were Commissioner W. C. Carter, prohibition director, Frederick Dismuke and Captain G. T. E. Hardeman, of the raiding squad.

RAIL BOARD MEN SEEK TO SETTLE LOCAL DISPUTE

Question as to whether the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway Clerks' association or the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, is the legitimate body to speak in behalf of the clerks employed by that road was the subject of investigation of representatives of the United States labor board in Atlanta Wednesday.

G. W. W. Hanger, representing the public; W. L. McMenimen, representing organized labor, and J. H. Elliott, representing the railroads, conducted the inquiry here, coming on a special car from Nashville, where a similar investigation was held Tuesday.

"It is our purpose to discover which organization has in its membership a majority of the clerks employed by the road," said Mr. Hanger, speaking for the board. "If our inquiry shows that the brotherhood, which is affiliated with the other railroad brotherhoods, has this majority, it will receive recognition and vice versa."

There is now some question as to this majority due to the fact that both organizations have furnished us lists of their members with each claiming the fealty of certain employees. Our mission is to find out which of these lists is correct and if neither is correct to make the necessary changes and then rule accordingly."

To this end, the investigators interviewed scores of clerks on their private cars, which was parked on Wall street near the Union station.

Merchants' Body Warns Against Questionable Goods

The attention of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association has been called to the fact that, at the present time, there are a number of transient retail traders in the city engaged in the sale of merchandise, the quality and value of which is questionable. The buying public of Atlanta is being warned by the association to look out for operations of these traders, who may call at their places of business or residences for the purpose of disposing of their merchandise. In the case of winter wearing apparel, such as furs, overcoats, etc., the buying public, at this time, is apt to be imposed upon. It is an easy thing for such merchants to be misrepresented to the unsophisticated public, the association says.

The Atlanta Retail Merchants' association requests that cases of this kind be brought to the attention of its office, 305 Connally building, telephone Main 165, for investigation by a special department established for this purpose. Every complaint, large or small, will be given close attention and careful investigation.

'Twas Fifty Years Ago, My Lads

Resurrected From the 1871 Files of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Fifty years ago a seat in the United States senate was just as much a seat in the United States senate as it is today, but the newspapers evidently didn't think so. Under an obscure one-line heading in The Constitution of November 8, 1871, I discovered two paragraphs inserted near the bottom of a column and adjoining the local advertisement of a furniture house.

The heading said "The United States Senatorship." I was about to pass it over as an inconsequential when I noticed one paragraph which read "On the eighth ballot, Hon. Thomas M. Norwood, of Savannah, was nominated," and then I realized that the few paragraphs formed the entire narrative of how the Democrats of Georgia had chosen the standard-bearer who was to be the first real Georgian to sit in the upper legislative branch since the war between the states.

The account showed that he had considerable and tremendously formidable opposition, but nevertheless the narrative is there the slightest suggestion that either Senator Norwood or any of his opponents had ever pulled a horse out of a ship, and was deliberately setting out to even the score.

It's true that he was nominated by the Democratic vote of the legislature which is no less than a high prize in this day and time when all political purity is wrapped up in a dirty primary system, but otherwise

BRIAND DISCUSSES ARMS CONFERENCE

Washington, November 9.—General principles upon which questions at issue are to be settled will be laid down in the first days of the conference on limitation of armament and Pacific and Far Eastern questions, according to the opinion expressed today by Premier Briand, of France, at a conference with American newspaper correspondents. He discussed freely the work of the armament conference and the spirit in which he and his associates in the French delegation will approach it for half an hour.

European Debts.

"Will the question of European debts to the United States come up?" he was asked.

"I do not think so," he replied. "France has no disposition to bring forward the question and I do not see how any subject not upon the program could be considered without the consent of all the governments represented."

In discussing the size of the French army, M. Briand said:

"Our army has been reduced greatly and is in process of further reduction. We are going to the extreme limit consistent with the security of France, and I may say, of Europe. We are in the presence of a disorganized Europe. Germany is disarmed as to artillery and to small weapons, but with sixty millions of people and with an industrial power that could create arms and war material with great rapidity."

Two Volcanoes.

"We are in the presence of two volcanoes. On the one side of Germany is soviet Russia in full eruption. The German volcano is rumbling. The only barrier is Poland. Should it fall, we would have the two countries of Europe united. We must have sufficient strength to deal with eventualities affecting the world. The United States will understand the significance of that duty, because she sent so many men across the ocean, for what I might call world peace."

France came to the conference, he continued, asking for nothing, soliciting nothing and has in the background no thoughts of things to be obtained for herself.

"We come rather," he added, using a homely expression of Brittany, "with our ears more widely open than our mouths. We shall listen rather than talk. We have our opinions to express and suggestions to make, but we have no sort of purpose to ask anything for France. We will arrange our affairs, and all that we would ask at any time would be moral freedom to do so."

DEMOCRAT CHIEF PLEASED BY RESULTS

and there even in the republican stronghold.

Chairman Cordell Hull, of the national democratic committee, tonight issued the following statement:

Statement by Hull.

"Fighting democrats who captured numerous republican outposts in Tuesday's elections have given evidence that the spirit of the party is still militant. Although this was not a general election, a conservative interpretation of the elections held indicates that the people are far enough away from the mist and confusion of war conditions and influences to see the merits of democratic administration and to realize the great benefits so generally enjoyed thereunder; to see and become convinced of the increasing demerits of the present republican administration and to realize that the comprehensive program of reconstruction proposed by the democratic administration following the armistice was obstructed and in chief measure defeated by a republican congress during 1919 and 1920, with the disastrous results to business which have inevitably followed. They indicate a general trend from the republican party including sections long under republican rule."

From the most gratifying outcome in Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland and other localities and the tremendous victory in Greater New York, the results in upstate New York cities and in Bridgeport, Conn., following recent democratic victories in other Connecticut towns are particularly gratifying because they have been strongholds of reactionary republicanism.

"The democratic victories of Tuesday will inspire democrats everywhere to renewed efforts with increasing expectations of success."

DEMOCRAT GAINS WIDE.

New York, November 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Final summation tonight of results of yesterday's "off-year" elections throughout the country indicated substantial gains for the democrats in four states—Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia and New York—while municipal ballots in many cities resulted in changes of party control.

The outstanding case of state-wide democratic victory was in Kentucky, where that party regained control of the legislature, which has been republican for two years. In Maryland, where the entire lower house was elected with 27 members of the senate, democratic control was increased.

In Virginia, the democratic gubernatorial candidate, State Senator E. Lee Trinkle, led his republican opponent by a wide margin, which extended also to his running mates, including J. Murray Hooker, the party's candidate for representative in congress.

In New York assembly, the democrats increased their representation by 23 seats, although the republicans won a total of ninety-six seats. Assemblymen, still retained a wide working margin.

"I asked him," Evelyn continued, relieved at seeing a quieter look come over the strained face, and the quivering of the long slim hands grow less spasmodic, "I asked him what effect the sudden, dramatic call to the colors had had on the preparedness people, and he snorted and said, 'Oh, they still want to be prepared, but they prefer to let the other fellow do the preparing.'"

"And he's right—he's just precisely right," exclaimed Alfred, hotly.

"I suggested that paraders are not always patriots, and that the person who shouts loudest for war is seldom the one who goes to war," said Evelyn.

"Well, it looks as if all that's left to us in a race of noisy demagogues are either too selfish to fight or too cowardly to fight, and that's about all there is to it. We might as well face the truth."

Evelyn gave a swift, involuntary glance at the poor, maimed form. "There will be others," she said, with show and conviction, "my brain about tears to the eyes to think how many others there will be—men of the purest and noblest motives—who will answer the summons promptly, ready to give their strong young bodies as sacrifices to this Moloch which has been set up as a god in our midst."

"Let us hope you are right about it," responded Alfred, gravely. "If there'll be any more to apply the remedy."

"And the remedy?" she inquired, humoring him.

"The remedy? The remedy is war—a universal military service. That's what will make men. This country has had a life of ease too long. War will bring to the front the real men who will put to shame this present weakness. And by Jove, if I don't believe we're going to have it."

He reached for one of the papers on the table, but Evelyn quickly and firmly removed them from his grasp. "We mustn't talk any more about these things today. It isn't good for you. It really isn't, Alfred, dear."

He leaned back in his invalid chair and sat looking thoughtfully off into the distance.

"Evelyn," he said, at length, "I simply can't understand you. I just can't. How on earth you can hold the views you do! Great heavens, where would this country have been, if those old revolutionary ancestors of yours and mine had thought as you do? There certainly weren't—"

Evelyn's cool and steady hand closed gently over his hot and throbbing forehead.

"You poor dear boy—you are so, so tired!" she exclaimed.

For a moment he was silent, then something made her add, quickly, "Some time—some time when you are feeling very much stronger and better—maybe I can make you understand how it is that your war has come to mean to me a madness, an inconceivable madness. You see, dear—just briefly and finally—a patriot that is a higher patriotism than that you are degrading of, a patriotism that presupposes the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

He turned and looked at her long and steadily.

"Yes, there is something—everything in it," she said, "Now, it is time for your afternoon nap."

HOUSE TAKES HAND IN WATSON DEBATE

Washington, November 9.—Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota, a former officer in the army, declared in the house that while he had no substantial of the charge that he "had reason to believe that soldiers were traitors, cowards or deserters in their ranks while facing the enemy."

The statement was hotly denied by Representative Bulwinkle, democrat, North Carolina, also a former officer, who declared he would not permit the Johnson statement to go unchallenged.

There were indications that the house, like the senate, was on the verge of a row over charges by Senator Watson, democrat, of Georgia, that soldiers were hanged without trial.

"No American was shot in France without trial," said Mr. Watson, "and there may have been cases where they were shot in the line of battle by their own forces, as traitors or as deserters."

From the democratic side members attempted to break in on the speaker, who could not make himself heard at times because of the hubbub. Commenting on the charge of illegal hangings made by Senator Watson, Mr. Johnson declared:

"No matter how we agree or disagree with the former secretary of war, or General Pershing, I know the law. I know the law of the land and I know that soldiers were hanged without trial and without court-martial conviction," declared Mr. Bulwinkle, "and I will not stand here and let go unchallenged the statement that men, either cowards or insane, were shot down in their tracks by men at their own side."

New National Park.

Washington, November 9.—The senate today passed the house bill providing for an investigation of the feasibility of establishing a national park on the plains of Chamotte, below the New Orleans. It is proposed, should the investigation show the plan to be not too costly, to create a park on the land on which the battle of New Orleans was fought, January, 1815.

Turner in Athens.

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.) John R. Turner, district governor of the Rotary, was the guest of the Athens Rotarians Wednesday at a luncheon at the Georgian hotel, impressing the members with his ability and great interest in Rotary. He made a very inspiring address to the hundred or more members present at the luncheon. Governor Turner is making a tour of his entire district and while in Georgia will visit Atlanta, Macon, Savannah and other cities where there are Rotary clubs.

Georgia Senators To Oppose Negro As Office-Holder

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 9.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Both Senators Harris and Watson, of Georgia, will fight to the last ditch on the floor of the senate, the confirmation of Henry Lincoln Johnson, colored, of Atlanta, whose nomination for register of deeds, for the District of Columbia, was today approved by the senate district committee. The committee's vote on approving the nomination was six to two, Glass of Virginia and Shepley of Texas, opposing it.

The fight of the Georgia senators on the floor will be augmented by the participation of several other democrats, all of whom will take the position that not only is Johnson personally objectionable to the senators from his state, which should, under the long established precedent in the senate, preclude his nomination, but that he should be regarded as unfit for the position by reason of his record as a lawyer at the bar of Atlanta, and even in complaints and affidavits that will be offered by Senator Watson.

On Party Lines.

It is known Georgia's junior senator recently wrote President Harding and urged him to withdraw the nomination of the Georgia negro, citing some of the charges against him that would in the senator's judgment render him unfit for the position, regardless of any objections that might be raised against him on racial grounds.

The consequence is that Johnson will very probably be confirmed in defiance of racial prejudice and in violation of the time honored rules of the senate to respect the purely personal feelings of the senators from the states in which nominations are made.

The judiciary committee today also reported favorably the nomination of Clinton W. Hager, of Atlanta, for district attorney, northern district of Georgia, and he will be confirmed without opposition.

The president sent to the senate today the nomination of Walter Akerman, of Cartersville, as marshal for the northern district of Georgia, to succeed Claude Bond, democrat, resigned, and the same will be confirmed without opposition.

LOWNDES NEARLY FREE OF CATTLE TICK FEE

Valdosta, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—In a report submitted to the county commissioners, Dr. J. V. Knapp, veterinarian working under the state authorities in the tick eradication work in Lowndes county, reported that Lowndes county has nearly completed tick eradication.

Dr. Knapp recommends that in certain districts of the county the dipping be continued until January. It will be a relief to many owners of large cattle herds when the county is pronounced "tick free."

Miss Helen Douglas Speaks at Y. W. C. A.

An indication of the interest the young women of today are showing in seeking information that will make them more valuable to their community, state and country as women citizens was expressed Wednesday night at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Arcade, when the industrial committee at their monthly meeting heard Miss Helen Douglas, one of Atlanta's young women of the legal profession, speak on "The Legal Status of Women in Georgia."

On the industrial committee are the leaders of four "Y" industrial clubs, Misses Mary Murphy, Helen Murray, Blanche Holbrook, Mary Phelps, Olga Skinner, Mary Goode, Loula H. Nix, Cora Anderson and Romayne Fowell. The young women hold business positions in Atlanta and with groups of other young women are "Y" club members. Others on the industrial committee are Miss Elizabeth Greig, industrial department chairman; Miss Marion Woodward, Miss Irma E. Finley, "Y" general secretary; Miss Elisabeth Goss, "Y" industrial secretary, and two representatives from Agnes Scott college, Miss Ruth Verdeen and Miss Victoria Howrie.

Following Miss Douglas' talk, at 7 o'clock there was a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. student industrial commission represented by five students of Agnes Scott college and five members of the "Y" industrial department. The purpose of the commission is "that the two groups may study together the different problems that enter into the life of the college girl and the industrial girl. In the "Y" south Atlantic field five commissions are being conducted, studying the following national topics: The co-operative movement, limitation of armaments, education, health and work. Work is the study of the Atlanta commission. The members in the separate commissions are in active correspondence concerning their different topics of study. In the summer Y. W. C. A. conferences for south Atlantic industrial departments, the commissions will meet and the topics of study will be featured in their educational programs.

The plan of the "Y" industrial department is to help girls find themselves in the changing order of present-day conditions, to interpret for girls the meaning of the abundant life and to make religious, the work, play, business and home elements of her life.

Tea Given Visitors.

Mrs. Herbert Miles entertained at an informal tea Wednesday afternoon at her home on Peachtree place, in compliment to a group of attractive visitors, including Mrs. Ed King, of Kansas City, Mo., the guest of Mrs. A. P. King; Mrs. Howard Perry, of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Frank Cochran, of Albany, Ga., who are visiting their sister, Mrs. L. C. McKinney, and Mrs. Wright and Mrs. William Burke, of Chicago, Ill.

The reception rooms were artistically decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and fall foliage. In the dining room the lace-covered table had for its central decoration a silver vase filled with chrysanthemums, and at intervals on the table were silver candlesticks holding unshaded yellow tapers.

The punch bowl was presided over by Mrs. J. H. Ewing, Jr., and Miss Virginia Ewing.

Mrs. Miles received her guests wearing a gown of white georgette crepe beaded.

Meeting of Hoo-Hoo Club.

The Atlanta Hoo-Hoo club held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening, November 7, at the Ansley hotel in the pine room.

Dr. William Torrance Stuchell was the special speaker, using "The Spirit of 1921" as his topic, being introduced by George W. West, vice-president of the Atlanta district.

President Milton Kitchell presided, with C. B. Harman as secretary. H. J. West, of the West Lumber company, having been elected secretary of the National Order of Hoo-Hoo at the last meeting in California, making him a member of the supreme nine, being present, was called upon for a few remarks, and explained just what the Order of Hoo-Hoo meant for Atlanta and Georgia and urged everyone to become active in promoting the work of the Hoo-Hoo in this section.

The following were elected directors of the club for the current year: W. J. Fraser, R. A. Burnett, W. R. Willingham, Jr., B. A. Creel and R. C. Morrison.

The Atlanta Hoo-Hoo club is the first in the United States and is being used as a basis for the organization of others elsewhere. The Order of Hoo-Hoo being an order of long standing and well founded all over the United States.

Following the dinner R. A. Burnett suggested the idea of the club having a tract of land near Atlanta, building a clubhouse, with a fishing pond and making it a home for Atlanta Hoo-Hoo and for the purpose of raising "cats and kittens" for sale to Hoo-Hoo all over the United States. The idea received strong endorsement and the project no doubt will be put through.

The next meeting of the club will be held Monday evening, December 5.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly stops the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Mothers! Watch Your Daughters' Health

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established she needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered from prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let her overstudy. If she complains of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her. She needs thoughtful care for a few years.

In all such cases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be given as it is especially adapted for such conditions. It contains nothing that can injure and can be taken in perfect safety.

Read how Mrs. Elcher helped her daughter. She says: "At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had pains across her back and in her sides. Every month her back would pain her so she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I read the books which were left at my door. She took it faithfully and now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter in your little books and in the newspapers."

—Mrs. KATIE ELCHER, 4034 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Williams will profit by her own experience. She says: "When I was thirteen years old I had sick spells each month and as I was very backward I would bear the pain and my mother knew nothing about it. It read in the daily paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and ask my own spending money and bought a bottle. It helped me so much that I took it regularly after that until I had taken two bottles and I did not have any more pain or backache and have been a healthy, strong woman. I am now 39 years old and have a little girl of my own, and when she gets old enough I shall give her none other than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

—Mrs. C. E. WILLIAMS, 2437 W. Toronto St., Philadelphia, Pa.

For almost fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been helping women, young and old, of ailments peculiar to their sex. Ask your neighbor about it, for in every neighborhood there are women who know of its merits.

Thousands of letters similar to the above are in the files of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., and for years such letters have been published. Surely it is worth your while to make a fair trial of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Georgia Bulldogs Leave Tonight For Battle With Vandy Machine

For First Time This Season, Bulldogs Can Throw Entire Strength Into Action.

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Only one contender now looms up between Georgia and a claim for the southern championship. That team is Vanderbilt. The Bulldogs will leave Athens Thursday night, invade the Commodores at Rickwood park and the outcome of the game promises to be close.

At the beginning of the season Vanderbilt looked like a second rater. But the Georgia fans surprised the football world by turning out a Black and Gold team which seems the equal of the Vanderbilt team of bygone days. And, furthermore, they are still unbeaten in Georgia. Dispatches from Nashville indicate that interest in the Georgia-Vanderbilt game surpasses that of any other game of the season.

Squad in Shape.
For the first time since the season opened, the Vanderbilt baseball team is in good shape.

He opened Georgia bids fair to enter the game with practically the entire squad in condition. Fitts is the only man who will be unable to play. Hartley was injured in the encounter with Virginia last Saturday but will be able to start the game against the Commodores. Furthermore, Randall and Fletcher, who were not used against Virginia, should be right for Practice in the Bulldog camp has been rather light for the first part of the week. Coach Stegeman has contented himself with having the varsity and scrubs run through signals every afternoon. Another light practice tomorrow afternoon and the team will be ready to set sail for Nashville.

If the Vanderbilt game can be disposed of satisfactorily, Georgia should have easy sailing for the rest of the season. Only two more southern games remain on the schedule, Alabama and Clemson. No particularly stiff opposition is expected from either of these teams.

DARTMOUTH HOLIDAY.
Hanover, N. H., November 9.—
(Special).—Owing to the fact that Friday, November 11, is expected to be proclaimed a national holiday, and to the insistent demand of Dartmouth undergraduates that they be granted the usual annual "athletic holiday," the Dartmouth college faculty has announced that college exercises will be suspended Saturday, November 12,¹ thereby giving students the opportunity to witness the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania football game at the Polo Grounds, in New York. Over seven hundred Dartmouth students are expected to take the trip to New York, five hundred traveling on a special train which will leave Hanover Thursday afternoon. The students will be accompanied by cheer leaders and the student band.

Two Girls Held.
Mamie Handcock and Ladene Langley, both 17 years old, of Tallahassee, Ala., were taken into custody Wednesday night when they arrived in Atlanta at the Terminal station. Local police had been informed by authorities at Tallahassee that the girls ran away from home. They girls say that they came here to go into the show business. Authorities from Tallahassee are expected to arrive here Thursday morning and take the girls home.

RETIREMENT ORDER TO BRING FIGHT
A bitter fight in city council against the retirement of fifteen members of the police force who have passed the age of 60 years seemed likely Wednesday when Councilman Claude Ashley declared the action of the board of police commissioners in instructing the eligible men Tuesday night to apply at once for pensions was a political move, and that he would "fight to prevent the retirement of any policeman merely because he had grown gray-haired in the service."

John S. McClelland, police commissioner from the third ward and chairman of the efficiency committee which recently ordered a physical examination of officers eligible for pensions, denied Wednesday that the police board had been guided by politics. "We singled out no individuals," he said. "We acted on the idea that a police officer past 60 years of age was not capable of performing his duty as efficiently as a younger man. The Atlanta people have clamored for more efficiency in the department. The efficiency committee promised improvement if given free reign. It would improve the department's efficiency 100 per cent within six months. Now the board has acted in that direction. It is now up to council to say whether the board shall be retarded in its work."
The pensions must receive the approval of city council before the eligible men are retired from active service.

Veterans Here For Reunion Opening Today

Many ex-soldiers who journeyed to France as members of the 321st artillery, of the 82d division, had arrived in Atlanta Wednesday night, and many more were expected Thursday morning, for the first annual reunion of the 321st Field Artillery association, which will start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the Ansley hotel. The main purpose of the reunion is to complete the association's organization, with the end in view towards bringing about many get-together meetings of the ex-members of the 321st. Thursday night a big banquet for the soldiers is planned, while on Friday they will take part in the local Armistice day celebration. Saturday the men will occupy a center box section at Graceland field during the Georgia Tech-Georgetown football game. There will also be a smoker Friday night. The reception reunion program has been arranged by Captain J. B. Conyers, of Atlanta, Saturday morning they will go to Marietta, Ga., where they trained for service in France, and will be the guests at a barbecue.

ONE ANTI-CANCER TALK SLATED TODAY

Only one anti-cancer speech is slated for Atlanta Thursday, that being the one by Dr. Charles E. W. Weaver, secretary of the Fulton County Medical society, at 12:30 o'clock, at the Ad Hotel club luncheon in the Kimball Hotel. The only speech on cancer delivered in Atlanta Wednesday was by Dr. E. L. Hirschman at 11 o'clock in the morning to a gathering of street railway employees in the Labor Temple, on Trinity avenue. The next week representatives of the county society will address the Emory University Woman's club on the university campus. Other speeches to local unions are expected to be announced soon.

It's a Satisfaction to Know You're Selling the Best Clothes in the World for the Money

(Says Bob)
That's a strong statement, but if you fellows knew what I know about the clothes I am selling, I'm a son of a gun if a lot of clothing merchants wouldn't have to go out of business. I'm talking now about high-class, hand-made, all-wool clothes—Suits that I know you'll pay from $10 to $15 more for almost anywhere else. They're Suits full of quality—the kind of Suits I have been selling for years—the kind that always satisfies my patrons—the kind that'll satisfy you.

For instance, I've got a few left of those Special Suits I recently offered—a tremendous, big value for

Twenty-Five Dollars

Then I've got a line of Suits in my regular stock that can't be duplicated anywhere—but I want to move 'em, and if I could just hammer it into your "noggin'", you'd snap 'em up at the price of

$30 - $35 - $40

Excellent Union Suits at $1.50 - $2 - $2.50

A big line of Shirts, Hats and other Furnishings here, too
